Manhunt leads to capture of suspected killer of 2

MIAMI (UPI) — An employe extorted $50,000 from a Miami industrialist and his wife Wednesday and then killed them with a burst of rifle fire before being hunted down by police at the edge of the Everglades.

Police said Sydney Gans, 64, and his wife, Lillian, 60, were killed with a semi-automatic rifle fired by Thomas Knight, a 23-year-old worker at Gans' bag and paper company plant.

Police said Knight fled into a jungle-like thicket where he was captured several hours later following one of the most massive manhunts in the city's history.

Police said Knight abducted Gans at gunpoint outside his plant about 8:30 a.m. Wednesday and forced him to drive to his luxury home on an island in Biscayne Bay where he picked up Mrs. Gans. Then, they drove to the City National Bank in downtown Miami.

As Mrs. Gans and the plaited-haired gunman circled the block, Gans withdrew $50,000 and called Kenneth Whittaker special agent in charge of the Miami FBI office.

"He said he wanted to pay the money," said Whittaker. "He said the man had a machinegun and he felt like he meant business."

As Gans emerged from the bank, agents trailed the yellow Mercedes by car and helicopter to the jungle-like area on the edge of the Everglades where the car stopped along a canal.

Gans and his wife were shot in the car with bullets from the .30 caliber rifle that shattered the car window on the driver's side and spattered the victims' blood on the brown leather upholstery.

"It appeared he intended to kill his hostages all along," said Whittaker.

More than 200 policemen and federal agents quickly surrounded the area after the gunman stuffed the $50,000 into his shirt and fled into the underbrush which Whittaker said he apparently knew well.

Three police helicopters dropped pepper gas canisters into the area and magnesium flares were dropped in an attempt to set the brush afire and drive the suspect out. Finally, after the 90-minute pepper gas barrage, eight flakvested police marksmen and dogs began combing the area.

Dade County police Sgt. Russell Kubik, coughing and sneezing from the gas fumes, found Knight "burrowed in the mud" near the start of the sweep, about 4 p.m.

"When I first saw him I thought it was just a bunch of rags," said Kubik. "I didn't recognize him as a human being. He was completely motionless."

"I put my gun to his head. I said 'Get up. Put your hands up.'

"He got up and said, 'Don't shoot,'" said Kubik.

Police found the rifle and $50,000 on the ground where the thin, six-footer was lying. He was wearing a dark tank-top shirt and wore his hair plaited in the "corn row" style.

St. Clair says new transcript disproves Dean's testimony

Strike approved for 500,000 phone employes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The executive board of the Communications Workers of America early today rejected a contract offer from American Telephone & Telegraph and authorized a strike vote among the union's 500,000 members employed by the Bell system.

CWA President Glenn E. Watts, chairman of the union's national bargaining committee, announced the decision 90 minutes after most of the more than 100 contracts in the Bell system expired at midnight.

Just before expiration, the contracts were extended on a two-day at a time basis, the company announced.

Talks have been going on for several months here in the first nationwide bargaining between AT&T and two major international unions and several independents covering all of Bell's 750,000 workers.

Before the CWA announcement, pickets went up around phone company installations in the Charleston, W.Va., area. Local 2001, representing about 1,300 workers, walked out although no prestrike procedures had been completed, said CWA spokesman Dave Kent.

Kent, in Washington, said, "They probably are trying to show us (the negotiators) how much they support us." He added, however, that "no strike has been authorized in the Bell system."

He said he expected the walkout would last only a few days, in the absence of a nationwide settlement, and that the Charleston strike would not affect the negotiations.

Watts told the Bell System Bargaining Committee (BOBS) that contracts would be extended on a day-to-day basis until "such time as the parties enter into new contracts" or until either party gives the other 48 hours written notice of termination "of the contracts."

Negotiations continued past midnight, AT&T said, but Kent said he was not at liberty to say what the status of the talks was.

Defense ends statement in impeachment probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Presidential lawyer James D. St. Clair, summing up President Nixon's impeachment defense, gave the House Judiciary Committee a new transcript today which he said disproved Watergate testimony by John W. Dean, Nixon's former counsel.

St. Clair told reporters at the conclusion of his 90-minute summation for a closed committee session that the transcript proved Nixon was not aware of and did not approve payment of hush money to E. Howard Hunt.

Although the committee had subpoenaed the tape of the conversation on which the transcript was based, Nixon withheld it on the ground it was not relevant.

However, St. Clair said, it became relevant because Dean "changed his testimony" about events of March 21, 1973, when he discussed Hunt's demands with Nixon. That night, Hunt was paid $75,000.

The new 2-½ page transcript was of a conversation with Nixon and H.R. Haldeman on the following morning in which, St. Clair said, Nixon made clear his disapproval of paying blackmail.

St. Clair said Dean had previously testified "nothing was resolved at the end of March 21 meeting." But when called before the Judiciary Committee to testify, Dean said "something was decided," St. Clair said.

To refute Dean's testimony, St. Clair said, Nixon decided to make the new transcript available even though he previously had told the committee that he had given it "the full Watergate story."

St. Clair's summation ended 10 weeks of closed hearings by the 38-member committee on whether the evidence is sufficient to warrant Nixon's impeachment.

Next week the commitee will begin debating whether to recommend impeachment with the vote now scheduled to occur by Saturday, July 25.

St. Clair, told the committee earlier that it should not vote any articles of impeachment against the President.

Some committee members complained that St. Clair was out of order because the time had passed for presentation of new evidence. But Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., permitted him to read the transcript at the meeting.

"I can't believe it," Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Tex., said. "It focuses on the utter contempt that the President holds for the House of Representatives."

Some Republican members, however, said the committee should make itself available to any evidence. "I'm not giving a whole lot of weight to it," Rep. Charles Sandman, R-N.J., said. "I don't think it's that sensational."

U.S. envoy sent to head off war

By United Press International

U.S. Presidential envoy Joseph Sisco flew into London today and began immediate talks with Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit on ways to avert war between Greece and Turkey over the Greek-led military coup that deposed Cyprus President Archbishop Makarios last Monday.

The Turkish Parliament met in emergency session in Ankara to consider giving Ecevit a mandate to invade Cyprus. Turkey has massed thousands of troops along its southern coast with a number of landing craft and warships. Cyprus lies 50 miles off Turkey's south coast.

Sisco, undersecretary of state, was meeting later today with British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan and Prime Minister Harold Wilson. With diplomatic activity centering in London, Wilson conferred with his cabinet in advance of Sisco's arrival.

Makarios also talked with the British leaders and flew today to New York to plead his case before the U.N. Security Council. Diplomats likened his case to that of Emperor Haile Selassie in his vain attempt to get the League of Nations to intervene when Italy invaded Ethiopia in 1936.

Girl, 2, survives 14-story plunge

CARACAS (UPI) — A two-year-old baby girl survived a 14-story plunge and a crash through the tin roof of a parking lot with no more than a ruptured blood vessel and shock.

Venezuelan doctors at Caracas' Coche emergency clinic said Wednesday Ingrid Checha is out of danger and suffered no internal injuries in the 160-foot fall.

Expedition seeks $225 billion in Spanish treasure

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — Gov. Bruce King wants to send an expedition into southern New Mexico to hunt for up to $225 billion in Spanish gold believed buried somewhere under a desert mountain according to an old legend.

But because the area is on the White Sands Missile Range, which belongs to the Army, King had to ask permission to send treasure hunters onto federal property.

"The purpose of the entry would be to remove at least a portion of the gold bullion which is allegedly located under Victorio Peak," King said Wednesday in a telegram to Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway.

"We would take no more than four persons with us, or our designees, and would remain on the property no longer than 48 hours," the wire said. "To be taken with us would also be the necessary equipment for removal."

King said if any buried gold bullion was found, "It would be our intention to place the gold with the appropriate authorities, federal and-or state, to hold in safekeeping until the rights of various parties are determined by appropriate legal action."

It was the latest in a series of developments surrounding the mysterious treasure trove buried somewhere on the desert mountain in South Central New Mexico.

FBI hid wiretap news from Hoover, report also says

400,000 lie tests considered by Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A high FBI official handed an assistant attorney general secret wiretap records in July, 1971, for fear J. Edgar Hoover might use them to blackmail President Nixon as he had "used wiretap information to blackmail other Presidents."

The story came to light today in five volumes of evidence published by the House Judiciary Committee before it begins debate next week on whether Nixon's conduct in office warrants impeachment.

The new evidence traces how political spying developed in the White House —using the same personnel and techniques —from elaborate machinery set up to combat news leaks of sensitive national security matters.

So deep was Nixon's concern with the leaks, a newly published tape transcript shows, that at one time he considered ordering lie detector tests for 400,000 government workers who had "top secret" clearance.

But the big surprise in the 2,314 pages of evidence came in a sworn statement given FBI agents on May 10, 1973, by Robert Mardian, the former assistant attorney general and once a high official in the Nixon re-election campaign. Mardian has been indicted in the Watergate cover-up conspiracy.

Mardian told how William Sullivan, Hoover's deputy at the FBI, came to him in July, 1971, and said he feared he was going to be fired because of policy differences with Hoover.

Sullivan said he wanted to give Mardian wiretaps ordered by Henry A. Kissinger after news had leaked out about the U.S. fallback position in the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT).

"He said this was wiretap information and that, in his opinion, Mr. Hoover could not be entrusted with this information," the FBI report said. Mardian first expressed reluctance to talk about the incident, it noted.

Jury finds pair guilty of murder

A Pomona Superior Court jury ruled Johnny R. Thomas, 28, and Roger L. Cox, 29, guilty of first-degree murder and first-degree robbery late this morning.

The panel of seven men and five women had been considering the verdict almost a week. Thomas, a housemover, and Cox, a swimming pool maintenance worker, were accused of robbing and murdering J. W. Clements, 49-year-old Corona man whose body was found March 19 in Live Oak Canyon.

The verdict meant that the jury members must return to Judge Carlos M. Teran's court Monday morning to begin a hearing on so-called special circumstances involved in the slaying of Clements. Those alleged circumstances have to do with a possible death penalty being levied against the two men.

More blackouts in W&P dispute

By United Press International

Emergency repair crews, made up of striking Department of Water and Power employes, repaired damage to an electrical distributing station early today in Granada Hills which caused a blackout.

It was the second such incident since DWP personnel walked off their jobs Wednesday in a wage dispute.

A DWP spokesman said an investigation discovered that a chain had been thrown over a fence into the outdoor wiring system Wednesday night, striking a circuit breaker and causing a minor explosion which short circuited eight feeder lines.

GENTLY NOW

Nikolai, one of the Chicago Lincoln Park Zoo's eight snow leopards, is sprawled out under a X-ray machine at Presbyterian-St. Luke's hospital Wednesday. It was the big cat's second dose of radiation therapy for mouth cancer. The treatment lasted two minutes and will be repeated for six to seven weeks.

La Verne police

Wage talks bogged down

Wage negotiations between La Verne city officials and the 21-man Police Department have apparently come to an impasse.

An eight per cent across-the-board increase went into effect this week for 45 city employes, but the police officers association turned it down.

Detective Charles Andreau, a spokesman for the association, said the proposed pay offer would still leave his department below the average paid by comparable cities in the area.

He said the association originally asked for an 8½ per cent cost of living increase and 4.6 per cent more to bring salaries in line with those of other communities. In addition, the officer sought time and a half for overtime, an educational incentive plan, bilingual pay for Spanish speaking officers and a dental plan.

The entire package was turned down by City Manager George Caswell, acting as the negotiator for the City Council, Andreau said. Caswell made a tentative offer of the straight eight per cent two months ago, "and since then, we have been unable to make any progress."

Andre said his group has lowered its sights somewhat but still there has been no counter-offer from the city.

He said that for the past 10 years the pay of the department has always been below the salaries of other cities.

"If we get what we ask for, the top for our patrolmen will go from $1,068 a month to about $1,200," he said. "That's about what other departments are paying."

He said the La Verne Police Department was not planning a protest or walkout "because we feel the protection of the public should come first."

Montclair man booked on kidnaping charge

A passing Pomona policeman chased down and arrested a Montclair man shortly after midnight and booked him on a kidnaping charge after two young women complained that the suspect forced them to accompany him.

The officer, P. V. Rodriguez, reported that he saw the women running in the 300 block of E. Holt Avenue after being approached by two men in a car. The officer said he turned his car around and returned and found the suspect walking behind the young women. As Rodriguez approached, the women ran to the radio car.

At that point the man who was following the women ran north on Towne Avenue but was run down and arrested in the 500 block of N. Towne Avenue.

The women, Mary Jo Newbern, 19, and Debbie Lee Newbern, 20, later said they were walking home from a store when the two men asked if they wanted a ride. They said no and one man got out and, gesturing as if he had a pistol in his pocket, ordered them to accompany him.

They said they accompanied the man, later identified as Joseph Marcias Quintanar, 20, 5544 W. Holt Blvd., Montclair, because they feared he might have had a gun.

Quintanar, who Rodriguez said appeared intoxicated, said he joined the two women after a quarrel with his unidentified friend and was walking with them when Rodriguez approached.

Two Montclair men arraigned in traffic death

Two young Montclair men were arraigned Wednesday in Pomona Superior Court on manslaughter charges resulting from the traffic death June 1 in Claremont of an elderly woman.

The men, Bruce Alan Banker, 18, and Terry M. Chambers, 19, were arraigned before Judge Francis J. Garvey who scheduled a pretrial hearing on various legal motions for Aug. 7.

Police charged that Banker and Chambers were racing in Claremont Boulevard when Banker's car collided with the victim's car at Ninth Street. The victim, Edith Elser Harrison, 82, of Claremont, was killed outright.

MSAC back to normal schedule

Classes resumed a near normal schedule today as Mt. San Antonio College was placed back on Edison Co.'s main electrical system.

The Walnut campus has been without its main electrical source since Monday night when a main breaker within the college's electrical system was "blown."

College officials said they located a shield needed for the switch and the college was placed back on the main line early today.

"But we have found some bad cable and we are replacing them before we energize the buildings they serve," said Knud Weirumo, building inspector.

He said only the administration building and library are not receiving full electrical service today. Weirumo, however, said the administration unit should be back in operation today and the library on Friday.

"The library will take a little longer since we have some cable there that we can't pull through the conduit. We are having to dig it out of the ground."

Technicians working to repair the electrical system had found a leak in the main switch that required a special kind of shield to prevent an arc from going from one area to another.

They located the needed part Wednesday in Los Angeles, made the necessary repairs, and had the campus placed back on the main line about midnight.

Officials had moved various classrooms Wednesday into rooms which had windows or other sources of natural light.

L.P. man given term in prison in murder case

A La Puente man, 20-year-old Ruben Sanchez, was sentenced Tuesday to state prison for second-degree murder in the slaying Nov. 10 of Pomonan Jon Balfour Soupcoff, 23.

Soupcoff, 23, was stabbed to death outside 1520 White Ave., La Verne. The place was known as the La Verne Inn at the time.

Sanchez was sentenced by Pomona Superior Court Judge Carlos M. Teran. The conviction calls for five years to life in prison.

Sanchez, originally charged with first-degree murder, was convicted of the lesser charge by a jury which deliberated the case during the June 7 to 10 weekend.

A San Dimas child suffered minor injuries Wednesday when he stepped from the rear door of a moving camper and landed on the Interstate 210 freeway near Via Verde.

That incident then triggered a two-car accident in which one driver sustained minor injuries.

Jim Lee Williamson, 2, of 315 W. Base Line Ave., was treated at San Dimas Community Hospital and released.

He was riding in the back of a pick-up driven by John Williamson, same address, and stepped from the rear door of the camper shell, said highway patrolmen.

The driver reported he was going about 50 miles an hour north on the freeway when he heard children in the back. He looked back and then stopped after seeing the camper door was open.

Meanwhile, Daniel Sherman, 26, of Huntington Beach, came upon the scene and began changing to the left lane as vehicles slowed in front of him.

As he did, he was struck from behind by a car operated by Christine Richardson, of 1053 Ashford St., La Verne, said officers.

Sherman was also taken to the San Dimas hospital where he was treated and released.

Injured Ontario youth listed in critical 'guarded' condition

One of two Ontario youths injured when a motorcycle collided with a car in the intersection of E Street and Fern Avenue in Ontario Tuesday remains in very critical "guarded" condition at Ontario Community Hospital's intensive care unit this morning.

Jeff Scott Bough, 15, of 542 W. Philadelphia St., Ontario, a passenger on the motorcycle and its driver Randy Jay Cook, 16, of 1095 Nocta St., Ontario, were both seriously injured in the accident about 2 p.m. Tuesday. The motorcycle, according to police, apparently failed to yield the right-of-way to a car driven by Steve John Bodner, 54, of 907 W. H St., Ontario, north on Fern Avenue. The motorcycle, east on E Street, hit the front of the car and the two youths were thrown to the pavement.

Bough, since Tuesday, has been listed in critical to guarded condition at the Ontario hospital with multiple injuries. Cook was given medical treatment at the Ontario Hospital and later transferred to Kaiser Hospital in Fontana where he is listed in fair condition this morning.

Vandals break into Forest Lawn

Vandals who broke into the office at Forest Lawn Covina Hills, 21300 Via Verde Ave., Wednesday, ransacked the place but apparently took nothing, sheriff's deputies said.

Groundkeeper James Whitehead, 24, found a glass panel broken in the office door and called police. Inside they found the place had been ransacked and coffee and water thrown around the room, but nothing missing.

Shootout kills kidnaped Argentine publisher

BUENOS AIRES (UPI — A kidnaped Argentine newspaper publisher died in a shootout at a rural farmhouse southeast of Buenos Aires late Wednesday, 22 days after he was abducted during a morning stroll.

Police said the publisher, David Kraiselburd, 61, was found dead with two bullet wounds after a prolonged gunbattle between police and the kidnapers two and a half miles north of La Plata, 35 miles southeast of Buenos Aires.

Kraiselburd was kidnaped June 25 as he walked the three blocks from his home in La Plata to his office in the morning newspaper El Dia.

Kraiselburd was also publisher of the afternoon La Gazeta and president of the board of directors of Noticias Argentinas, an Argentine news agency.

Diaz said neighbors alerted police to "suspicious" movements around the tiny farmhouse and a unit was sent to investigate. Diaz said police surrounding the house were fired upon by the occupants, who fled after a brief resistance.

Diaz said the police found Kraiselburd's body in the house. They also found one of the kidnapers, wounded by a gunshot wound, Diaz said.

The police did not immediately say if the abductors were members of one of the several guerrilla groups that have been responsiblie for spectacular kidnapings and murders in Argentina recently.

More than 250 persons have been kidnaped in Argentina in the past two years.

Pomonan's auto hits utility pole

A motorist was injured slightly early Wednesday afternoon when his car went out of control, damaged shrubbery and hit a utility pole along Towne Avenue north of Pasadena Street in Pomona.

Peter M. Kelly, 18, 375 Adams Ave., Pomona, declined immediate medical attention. Police quoted him as saying he lost control of the car when he swerved to avoid a collision.

Consumers must pay more now for natural gas

This results from the California Public Utilities Commission ruling which grants the Southern California Gas Co. authority to increase rates by $33,693,000 a year for its 3.2 million customers.

The new rates become effective immediately.

In its action, the commission said the new rates should allow the gas company an opportunity to earn an 8.5 per cent return on its investment, for a 12.5 per cent return on equity.

The gas company cited a lower growth rate, shortage of gas supplies, higher costs of wages, operating and maintenance expenses, materials, supplies, and the need to attract new capital at satisfactory terms as primary reasons for seeking the increase.

Fire engulfs Ontario home

A fire of undetermined origin roared through a three-bedroom stucco and wood frame home this morning at 512 E. Azalea St. in Ontario, causing an estimated $20,000 damage to the structure and its contents.

Fire Bttattalion Chief David Lee said the fire apparently broke out in the rear portion of the home, either in a bedroom or bathroom, awakening a woman occupant and her two dogs. The woman, whose name was not immediately known, and her dogs managed to get out of the home without injury. Lee said the home is owned by Raymond C. DeVall.

Sale will benefit Arroyo playground

The Arroyo School PTA in Pomona will holds its first annual rummage sale in the school auditorium Friday from noon to 4 p.m. and Saturday from 8 a.m. to noon.

The proceeds from this sale will be used to help provide adequate playground facilities for the students.

Parents and friends wishing to help may call Jackie Dunigan, 629-8460 or Linda Pacheco, 629-8411.

No new leads in Ontario man's mystery murder

Ontario police this morning said they had no new leads in the shooting of a 45-year-old Ontario man found dead in his home Monday at 245 E. Budd St.

Since the body of William Sullivan Allen of the Budd Street address was found by his girl friend late Monday night, detectives have been interviewing a number of the victim's friends and possible suspects in an attempt to determine the motive for the shooting.

A coroner's report showed that Allen had been dead approximately three or four days before his body was found. The coroner reported the cause of death to be a bullet wound of the head that shattered the skull.

Police confirmed reports that Allen had had an extensive police record prior to 1965 and had served some time in prison. However, the detectives could find no further criminal record since 1965.

Film at church

"The Rapture," a film feature, will be shown at the First Baptist Church of Montclair Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The movie portrays how a television network might possibly handle the event of the rapture upon Christ's second coming.

Preliminary hearing set in man's death

Jose Salazar Sanchez, 23, has been ordered to return to West Valley Municipal Court July 25 for a preliminary hearing to determine if there is enough evidence to hold him over for trial in the murder of Howard C. Young, 68, of 12057 Turner Ave. in Ontario.

Young was found dead in his small rented home by his landlord on July 9. He had been tied up and beaten to death. Sanchez was arrested only hours after Young was found dead. According to Ontario police Sanchez lived with Young for about a week until they argued and Young ordered Sanchez out of his home.

Friday Sanchez was formally charged with murder and Monday appeared before San Bernardino County Municipal Court Judge Celia Baker, sitting in for West Valley Muncipal Court Judge Martin Hildreth who is vacationing. After the arraignment Judge Baker remanded Sanchez to the custody of sheriff's officers without setting bail. Sanchez Tuesday was to reappear for a bail hearing.

During the arraignment Sanchez said he was unable to afford an attorney and Judge Baker appointed the public defender's office to handle his case.

Loaded revolver in man's auto

Ralph Luna Rivas, 27-year-old La Puente man, was arrested Wednesday by sheriff's deputies who reported finding a loaded, .22-caliber revolver beneath the front seat of his car. The deputies said they stopped Rivas in La Puente at Lawnwood Street and Ailerson Avenue for a traffic offense and saw the butt of the gun. He was booked on a charge of carrying a loaded gun in his vehicle.

Legal marijuana 'realistic'—state study

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legalizing the possession and use of marijuana in California is "reasonable and realistic," a legislative study has concluded.

The Senate Select Committee on Control of Marijuana suggested that first-time offenders, at the worst, be treated like speeding motorists and cited for a legal "infraction."

"Marijuana use is not a threat to public health, safety or morals so as to warrant state intrusion," the committee said in its 121-page report released Wednesday.

The committee, chaired by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, began its study a year ago and based its findings on three public hearings, cooperation of "outstanding citizens" and previously published research.

Among 21 conclusions drawn by the committee was that marijuana laws were "dishonest" and cost taxpayers more than a half billion dollars to enforce over the past 14 years.

While the committee suggested a "program of decriminalization" for simple use or possession of marijuana by adults, it recommended criminal penalties for growing, transporting or selling the weed. It also said the government should concentrate on arresting large-scale pushers.

Similar proposals were put forth in 1972 by the National Commission of Marijuana and Drug Abuse.

California currently allows legal authorities discretion whether to charge first-time offenders with either a felony or a misdemeanor, with penalties up to a year in jail or 10 years in prison and fines up to $20,000.

To support its recommendations, the committee concluded marijuana use has reached "epidemic" levels and was likely here to stay, clogging courts, causing disrespect for the laws and endangering the rights of privacy.

"It was found the most serious cost of criminalization of marijuana is it makes felons of a large segment of our population, especially our youth," the report said.

The study was expected to be the basis of renewed efforts in the legislature next year to reduce marijuana penalties.

The committee said enforcement of marijuana laws since 1960 has cost Californians $577 million.

Nationwide, the appetite for marijuana has given rise to a $835 million a year smuggling industry, where profits are sufficient to employ 280,000 persons in legitimate retail selling, the report said. It was estimated four tons of marijuana must be imported every day to keep up with the demand.

Also on the committee were Sens. Anthony C. Beilsenson, D-Los Angeles, Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, and W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside. Biddle said he disagreed with the report. But a committee aide said it reflected the beliefs of a majority of the committee.

Report shows decline

Nixon rising economy prediction falls short

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nixon Administration predictions of a rebounding economy have been overturned by new government figures that show a second consecutive quarterly decline in economic growth, UPI learned today.

The report is bound to revive debate over whether the United States endured a mild recession in the first three months of 1974.

The drop in economic output between April and June was small —something less than 1 per cent —informed sources said. This was far less than the dramatic 6.3 per cent decline in the first three months of 1974, the biggest quarterly slump since 1958.

The actual figures will be released later today by the Commerce Department in its quarterly report on the Gross National Product (GNP).

The new statistics reflect an economy that is shaking off the debilitating effects of the energy crisis, but not quite as fast as the administration had hoped.

Such key government officials as Kenneth Rush, President Nixon's chief economic adviser, and Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board had predicted a small "plus" in economic growth in the preceding three months.

The result, according to highly placed sources, was just the opposite.

The figures also show how badly the nation is being victimized by inflation. The "minus" growth rate actually means that rising prices in April-June wiped out the total increase in the value of all goods and services produced during that three-month period.

There is sure to be new controversy over whether the nation has undergone the second recession of the Nixon presidency.

The shorthand definition of recession is two consecutive quarters of negative economic growth. This has now taken place.

But Chairman Herbert Stein of the President's Council of Economic Advisers argued last February that this definition "has no standing in the economics profession."

Nixon was even more emphatic in his State of the Union message on Jan. 31. "There will be no recession in the United States of America," he said.

Stein said a true recession is characterized by widespread unemployment and industrial stagnation. The 1974 slowdown has been borne chiefly by the automobile and housing industries and the jobless rate has, thus far, been in the neighborhood of 5 per cent, far lower than generally forecast.

At any rate, Stein said, "calling a situation a recession will not make it any worse and not calling it one will not make it any better."

Radiation linked to smoking cancer

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — A Johns Hopkins University professor says low-level radiation that occurs naturally in tobacco smoke could be the main cause of lung cancer in smokers, especially men.

Previously, tar and nocotine have been blamed as the primary causes of lung cancer in cigarette smokers.

But in a scientific paper prepared for delivery today at the Fifth International Conference of Radiation, Dr. Edward P. Radford said the same kind of low-level radiation —or "alpha radiation" —that has caused problems for underground miners exists in cigarette smoke.

He said the source of the radiation is the radioactive element polonium and concluded, "Polonium alpha radiation may be a significant cancer initiator in cigarette-induced bronchial cancer."

His research shows the bronchial tubes of cigarette smokers show an increased activity of "polonium radiation activity."

He said radioactive polonium-210 and its parent, lead-210, naturally exist in tobacco smoke.

"It appears that ponolium decay ... accounts for a substantial fraction, if not all, of cigarette-induced cancer in males," Radford said.

He also said that the danger of contracting lung cancer decreases after a smoker quits, because the body has time to expel the radioactive material and time heals damage done to tissue.

Radford, a professor of environmental medicine in the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health, said lung cancer each year kills about 65 males out of 100,000 and about 12 females out of 100,000. The rate for women, he added is increasing rapidly.

Lead-210 is a radioactive form of regular lead, and Radford said some of it collects in the tiny hairs of tobacco leaves, especially those grown on the East Coast of the United States. Then part of the lead-210 changes into the offending polonium-210.

Cigarette users inhale the polloniun-210 with smoke. Radford said it is possible the lead-210 could be removed from the tobacco leaves by scrubbing or some other process.

The scientist said it has been firmly established that underground miners exposed to similar low-level radiation face an increased risk of bronchial cancer.

In addition, he said the evidence shows the need for a closer study of the effects of low-level alpha radiation emanating from nuclear power plants such as those now operating or under construction.

MURDER VICTIMS

Industrialist Sidney Gans and his wife, Lillian, were murdered in Miami Wednesday when a man extorted $50,000 from the couple, then drove to an isolated field and machinegunned them to death. He was later captured. (Story, Page 1.)

Reinecke due to press court for dismissal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorneys for Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke of California were expected to press for dismissal of perjury charges against Reinecke because critical prosecution evidence was altered.

U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker denied a motion by Reinecke's lawyer, James E. Cox, to dismiss the case Wednesday but said Cox could renew his request later.

Cox asked for dismissal after a government witness testified, in the third day of Reinecke's trial, that a Senate hearing record on which the government's charges against Reinecke are based had been changed after submission to the court.

Cox was expected to renew his request for dismissal after special Watergate prosecutors complete their case against Reinecke, who is charged with having lied in testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Iran buying a quarter of German Krupp works

ESSEN, West Germany — Iran is buying a quarter of the giant Krupp steelworks in the biggest move by an oilproducing nation into Western industry, it was announced today.

Krupp, a munitions maker for Nazi Germany and one of the world's major industrial empires, announced approval of Iran's purchase of 25.4 per cent of the firm's steel division.

The announcement gave no details, but said the pact was linked with Iranian oil deliveries and the Tehran government's participation in West Germany's gasoline service station network.

The accord marked a major change for Krupp, a big arms maker for Germany's military machine during the two world wars, and reflected the increasing financial power of the world's oil-producing nations.

The 163-year-old firm, which was entirely owned by the Krupp family until recently, will have a non-German sitting on its 18-man supervisory board for the first time.

The pact gave Iran one-quarter of Krupp Huettenwerke, the empire's steel and engineering division. Krupp Ginlott, the industrial giant's parent firm, had owned 95 per cent of the steelworks, with the rest in public hands.

The steel division, which produced 4.3 million tons last year for sales of $1 billion, is West Germany's fourth-largest steel maker.

Financial analysts predicted the petroleum states, which expect to amass a surplus of $50 billion this year because of soaring fuel prices, would make more major investments in the West.

The analysts said most of the oil company profits have been placed so far in short-term bank deposits in Western Europe and the United States.

Some oil funds piled up since prices quadrupled, however, have aleady been invested in Western hotels, resorts, real estate and securities, they said.

Libyan leader one who ordered sub to torpedo ship

CAIRO (UPI) — Col. Moammar Khadafy of Libya ordered an Egyptian submarine to torpedo the ocean liner Queen Elizabeth 2 last year while it carried Jews on a special voyage to Israel, a Cairo newspaper said today.

Khadafy, chairman of the Libyan Revolution Command Council, ordered the attack to avenge the more than 100 Arab civilians killed when Israeli jetfighters shot down an aircraft flying over the Sinai desert in February 1973, the newspaper Al Akhbar reported.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat disclosed the plot in an interview taped in May and shown on British television Tuesday night. Sadat said he countermanded the order, but he refused to say who issued it.

Tonto in new role

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Jay Silverheels, best known for his role as Tonto at the side of the Lone Ranger, made his professional debut as a harness race driver at Louisville Downs Wednesday night.

Silverheels guided Pebbles Time, at 8-to-1 odds, to finish third and return $2.80 for show ticket holders.

"It was a rugged race," said Silverheels, who is a fullblooded Mohawk. "But I was confident I would be close. I've been around horses ever since I was on the reservation in Canada, so a love and affinity for horses just comes natural to me."

Wants death penalty

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mayor Frank L. Rizzo called for the return of capital punishment Wednesday night, saying he would "personally pull the switch if they run out of people who want to do it."

Rizzo told the state American Legion convention, "I'm not sure if it's (death penalty) a deterrent, but I know one thing, that when they pull that switch, he's not around to commit another crime.

"I'll tell you this," said the former police commissioner, "I will personally pull the switch if they run out of people who want to do it. I'm available."

Index for elderly?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., proposed Wednesday that a consumer price index be created especially for the elderly to reflect their living costs.

The new index, said Buckley, would be used to compute increases in their Social Security benefits.

He said enactment of his bill would "insure that future cost of living increases under the Social Security Act are more attuned to, and accurately reflect, the actual needs and special expenses of the aged."

For women only

PARIS (UPI) — Francoise Giroud is the world's first cabinet member in charge of women's affairs and she is hopeful that other governments might follow the example of France.

Mrs. Giroud, 57, was named secretary of state (junior minister) in Premier Jacques Chirac's office in charge of affairs concerning women. She sat in on her first cabinet meeting Wednesday.

"My position is a sign of consideration of the French government in regard to women, and I wish that other governments will interpret it in this manner and will follow France," she said after the government meeting. "I believe France and its president have given a good example."

Ali's home is sold

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (UPI) — Boxer Muhammad Ali's suburban home has been sold to a MacDonald's hamburger franchise owner for $175,000.

Officials said Wednesday that settlement for the Ali home, a 14-room Spanish-style ranch surrounding an atrium court, was made May 4 and filed in Camden County municipal records on May 10.

The house, which Ali bought for $102,000 in March 1971, was sold to Anthony Micale, who owns two MacDonald's hamburger franchises in Philadelphia and one in Levittown, Pa. The home includes a 20-foot reflecting pool, a 23-foot bar, a movie projection room and a three-car garage.

Sources said Ali apparently moved to Chicago soon after the murder of his neighbor and close friend Major B. Coxson in June 1973.

Legal aid to poor appears ready

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress appears ready to provide continued, tax-paid legal aid for the poor.

The question remains, however, whether President Nixon is willing to accept even the scaled-down legislation being fashioned for his signature.

Supporters of the bill insist they have administration assurances that Nixon will sign it. Opponents of the bill claim just as firmly that they have the word that Nixon has not made a decision.

Legislation creating the Legal Services Corporation —a version of which Nixon vetoed in 1971 —moved closer to congressional passage Tuesday.

The Senate and House agreed to tailor the bill to escape a certain veto by Nixon.

They deleted a provision which would have allowed the proposed Legal Services Corporation to contract with universities for research and other aid.

Critics of the provision have charged this has generated class action suits against government agencies, a move they say is far beyond the intent of legal services for the poor. They also called it a waste of money.

After first rejecting a move to kill the bill, 269-136, the House returned the legislation to the Senate, 265-136, with the controversial section eliminated.

Physician halts test tube baby research, blames public pressure

LONDON (UPI) — The doctor who announced the birth of three test-tube babies is giving up his research because of public pressure, a London newspaper said today.

The Daily Mail, in an exclusive report, said Prof. Douglas Bevis "cannot tolerate the pressure being brought to bear on him since his announcement" that three test-tube babies had been born and were thriving.

Bevis announced the births at a British Medical Association meeting in Hull, England, on Monday.

"I will be making no official statements on this matter," said Bevis, 55, Wednesday night. "I need a rest."

But the Daily Mail said Bevis and Leeds University officials decided Wednesday to "stop all research from today."

The newspaper said two of the babies, now between 12 and 18 months old, are in Britain and the third in Italy. They were born after eggs from their mothers were artificially fertilized in the laboratory.

Texan wins $440,000 at Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Two casinos where a mysterious, wealthy Texan gambled this week don't know who he was, but they sure know he was there.

According to casino executives, the Texan arrived on a private jet plane Monday and started playing craps at the Horseshoe Casino.

By midnight he had won $80,000. He took that over to the Union Plaza Casino and won another $250,000, making bets of up to $60,000.

Then, they said, eight hours later, he returned to the Horseshoe, won $110,000 more, took his $440,000 total winnings, returned to the airport and flew back to Texas Tuesday night.

RELEASED ON BAIL — Phyllis Bradley, 29, daughter of Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley, makes court appearance Wednesday on charges she was part of a ring selling cocaine. Bail was set at $1,000.

Bradley's daughter surrenders

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mayor Tom Bradley's 29-year-old daughter Phyllis, who has a police record going back seven years, surrendered Wednesday on charges she was a supplier for a Hollywood narcotics ring.

Wearing a rhinestone-studded jeans suit, big floppy hat and dark glasses, Miss Bradley stalked without a word through a crowd of waiting newsmen after being released on $1,000 bail, and disappeared in a waiting car.

Although her attorney objected that she should be released on her own recognizance, Municipal Judge Sheldon Sloan insisted on bail, citing her past record. He scheduled a hearing for July 31 for Miss Bradley and three other defendants.

Undercover sheriff's narcotics officers said that after making a large buy of cocaine in west Hollywood, the arrested suspects identified Phyllis Bradley as their supplier. Deputies with a search warrant said they found enough marijuana to make 250 cigarettes and amphetamines in her apartment and also charged her with "conspiracy to furnish cocaine."

Miss Bradley is still awaiting trial on charges of assaulting a police officer, filed after she was taken to police headquarters June 27, manacled hand and foot, after allegedly kicking and clawing officers who chased her auto when she sped away from a motorcycle patrolman who tried to stop her for a traffic violation.

She was convicted in 1967 of stealing clothes from a car and in 1972 of possessing marijuana. A shoplifting charge was dismissed.

The mayor, a former high ranking office official, has said only, following the assault arrest, that he had no reason to think the arresting officers acted improperly.

Obituary

Prehistoric beavers were larger than the modern black bear, reaching a length of up to seven and a half feet.

Susan Hayward

Actress has brain tumor

ATLANTA (UPI) — Actress Susan Hayward is undergoing treatment at Emory University Hospital here for a brain tumor, the Atlanta Constitution said today.

The morning newspaper quoted "close friends" of her late husband's family as saying Miss Hayward, 55, had been "in declining health for several months" and was admitted to the hospital early this week.

The newspaper also said that Dr. George T. Tindall performed a brain biopsy on Miss Hayward Wednesday to determine whether the tumor was malignant or benign.

The hospital refused to confirm or deny that the Oscar-winnning actress had been admitted. A spokesman said the hospital adheres strictly to a confidential policy concerning patients if it is requested by the patient or the patient's family.

Tindall also refused to talk with newsmen.

Miss Hayward lived at Carrollton, Ga., from 1958 to 1966 when she was married to the late Eaton Chalkley whom she met here while making the film, "I'd Climb the Highest Mountain."

After Chalkley's death in 1966 from a kidney ailment, Miss Hayward moved to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and later to Beverly Hills, Calif.

Man saves 5 drowning children

PACIFIC PALISADES (UPI) — David Javier, 46, of South Gate kept five children, ages 6 to 12, from drowning when they got caught in rip tides after the lifeguards went off duty at Will Rogers State Beach Wednesday.

He said one was already caught in rip tides when the others got into the same trouble going to the rescue.

Javier held only Lydia Tovar, 8, and her sister, Pauline, 12, who were unconscious, and kept the three other children from panicking in the water, helped Javier bring the children back to shore.

The five children and Javier were treated for salt water in the lungs at Santa Monica Hospital Medical Center. Only the two girls remained in the hospital Wednesday.

The other three children were the Tovar girls' brothers, Michael, 6, and Andrew, 9, and their cousin, Geronimo, 8.

Texas, Oklahoma outbreak of anthrax under control

MARLIN, Tex. (UPI) — Animal health officials in Texas and Okalhoma say they have isolated and controlled an outbreak of anthrax. But the disease, which is contageous and can infect humans, has already killed at least 200 cattle in Texas.

A special agent for Gov. Dolph Briscoe toured farmlands strewn with the burned carcasses of diseased cattle Wednesday and said everything appears under control.

Agent Reagan Brown said national guardsmen manning roadblocks in the quarantined area could be recalled in a few more days.

It appears the anthrax has been confined within Falls County in East Central Texas. And although cattle are still dying in the county, the deaths are occurring in unvaccinated herds.

The Texas Animal Health Commission ordered all available anthrax vaccine in the state to be shipped to Falls County.

Brown said he found 300,000 head of cattle in Falls County that need to be vaccinated and 250,000 doses of the vaccine were available.

"We feel like the situation is under control," Brown said. "There have been no other reports of anthrax from any other counties."

Cattle that die of anthrax must be cremated. Brown said 200 carcasses have been burned in Falls County and there are not many left to be cremated.

"People have really cooperated," he said.

In Washington, Dr. Francis J. Mulhern, head of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, said the anthrax outbreak posed no risk to consumers. He said there is virtually no chance meat from diseased cattle could reach consumers because any infected cattle would be condemned by government inspectors long before it could reach supermarkets.

Mulhern said there has never been a reported U.S. case of infection from eating tainted meat.

Once herds are vaccinated, ranchers must wait 42 days before moving herds to cattle merchants.

The quarantine will last 21 days after the last anthrax confirmed death is diagnosed, according to Dr. William L. Sippel of the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory in College Station.

CAMILLA HALL

Slain SLA member's letter tells thoughts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Camilla Hall, 29, who was killed in the Symbionese Liberation Army shootout with police May 17, wanted to be with her family to celebrate her mother's birthday.

A last letter found under her charred body said she couldn't make it because she was fighting "the capitalistic system."

The letter was addressed to a friend for delivery to her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. George P. Hall, in Lincolnwood, Ill.

It read in part: "I sent (name deleted by authorities) $5 and a note with this, saying that I was on the road and hadn't been able to get anything together for your birthday, Mom, and would they please buy you some pretty flowers and hand deliver them with this letter to you.

"I'm sorry I can't promise to be able to do this on our special family days, but know that I remember them and send my love on many, many more days than just those. Be strong."

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA FOR THE COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES

NOTICE is hereby given that, subject to confirmation by the above entitled Superior Court, on July 18, 1974 at the hour of 10:00 o'clock a.m., or thereafter within the time allowed by law, the undersigned, as executrix of the estate of Naomi Jo Rizzo, deceased, will sell at private sale to the highest and best net bidder on the terms and conditions hereinafter mentioned all right, title, and interest of Naomi Jo Rizzo, deceased, at the time of her death and all right, title, and interest that the estate has acquired in addition to that of decedent at the time of her death, in the real property located in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, described as follows:

Lot 42 of the Montclair Tract as per map recorded in Book 14, page 68 of Maps, in the office of the county recorder of said county.

The property is commonly referred to as 704 East Monterey, City of Pomona, County of Los Angeles, State of California.

The sale is subject to current taxes, covenants, conditions, restrictions, reservations, rights, rights of way, and easements of record, any encumbrances of record to be satisfied out of the purchase price.

The property is to be sold on an "as Is" basis, except as to title.

Bids or offers are invited for this property and must be in writing and will be received at the office of Thompson, Talbott, Lemaster & Taylor, attorneys for said executrix, at 401 South Main Street, Pomona California, or may be filed with the Clerk of said Superior Court or delivered to L. Guy Lemaster, Jr., personally, at any time after first publication of this notice and before making said sale.

The property will be sold on the following terms: cash or part cash and part credit, the terms of such credit to be acceptable to the undersigned and to the Superior Court, ten percent of the amount bid to accompany the offer by certified check, and the balance to be paid on confirmation of sale by the Superior Court. Taxes, rents, operating and maintenance expenses and premiums on insurance acceptable to the purchaser shall be prorated as of the date of confirmation of sale. Examination of title, recording of conveyance, transfer taxes, and any title insurance policy shall be at the expense of the purchaser or purchasers.

The undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all bids prior to entry of an Order Confirming Sale.

U.S., Soviet maneuver on Palestinian issue

By PHIL NEWSOM

With the Middle East peace conference expected to resume in Geneva in October, the United States and Soviet Union are maneuvering for rival positions of influence with one group without whom peace is impossible —the Palestinians.

The Soviets, their position of supremacy among Arab nations actively at war with Israel eclipsed by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's negotiations in Syria and Egypt, seem scheduled to win the first round.

At the invitation of Soviet party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, the head of the Palestine Liberation Organization Yasser Arafat, will visit Moscow in the next few days for a meeting expected to be climaxed by Soviet recognition of the PLO as the sole voice of Palestinians.

Most Arab states already have accorded similar recognition to the PLO whose 1968 covenant —reconfirmed last month in Cairo —asserts a democratic Palestinian republic will "rise from the ruins of the state of Israel."

On its side, the United States has said merely that coming months may be expected to see high-level contacts between the United States and Palestinian organizations develop as part of an over-all U.S. effort toward Mideast peace.

The Palestinians and Arab states have centered upon consideration of Palestinian "rights" as a condition for Palestinian participation in the Geneva talks. The United States has limited itself to consideration of Palestinian "interests."

As the United States and the Soviet Union maneuver in behalf of their Mideast clients, the debate also intensifies in Jerusalem and Cairo.

In Cairo, King Hussein of Jordan is meeting with President Anwar Sadat as part of Sadat's efforts to arrange a compromise between Hussein and Palestinian guerrillas expelled from Jordan by Hussein in bloody engagements in 1970-71.

The Palestinians have rejected him on the grounds of the events of 1970-71, and demand their own representation.

A similar disarray exists in Israel, including seemingly conflicting statements by Israeli leaders.

Computer hands out $7.5 million in error

NEW YORK (UPI) — Embarrassed city officials have admitted that a computer erroneously spewed out $7.5 million in unauthorized checks in the past three months to welfare clients who have been dropped from the rolls.

The problem has been corrected and authorities are now trying to get the money back — but some of it has probably been lost for good.

Acting Human Resources Administrator Howard S. Stein Wednesday said the computer issued the checks in April, May, and June because of a programming error.

"The malfunction of the system was traced to a programming step that, in error, signaled completion of one phase of the work and caused the computer to disregard subsequent information necessary to suppress production of the checks," Stein explained.

"As soon as we identified the problem as a computer error in late June," he added, "we took emergency corrective action ... and the system is now working."

But not before checks had been issued to about 21,000 former welfare clients, many of whom had either died or moved from the city.

Now, the HRA wants to get the money back, but just how much it recovers may depend on how many undeliverable checks are returned by the Post Office and on how many honest people voluntarily return checks.

Stein said the HRA is "identifying those cases where checks were inappropriately issued and cashed in order to pursue recoupment."

However, the cost of filing a suit in recovery cases is at least $150, and officials indicated they might not want to take that step for smaller amounts.

Of the $7.5 million, about one third went to ex-recipients of home relief and about two-thirds to families formerly on the rolls for aid to dependent children, officials said.

Link in Ontario area rape to prostitute killings?

Ontario police and the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department are attempting to determine if there is a connection between the beating and rape and a 21-year-old Pomona woman this week and a series of brutal prostitute murders across the country.

Ontario police learned Tuesday morning that a 21-year-old Pomona woman who admitted to previous acts of prostitution Monday night had been kidnaped by two men in a semi-trailer truck at the Union 76 truck stop at Milliken Avenue and the San Bernardino Freeway, east of Ontario.

The incident was first reported by a truck driver in Pico Rivera at the North American Van Lines depot. The driver, Henry Hall, reported to the depot manager that he had heard a woman screaming in another semi-tractor truck and went to investigate. He said he saw two other drivers pull the woman into a truck, similar to his, and drive away quickly.

Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies called to the depot learned that Hall had found a woman's purse with a driver's license belonging to a Montclair woman. The sheriff's department located the owner of the license in a Pomona motel and called in Ontario police after the woman reluctantly told officers she had been kidnaped, beaten and raped several times. According to Ontario police reports the woman admitted that she was soliciting at the Union 76 truck stop when the kidnaping occurred. The woman, police said, was not going to report the alleged crimes.

Later the woman said she was walking in the truck stop parking lot in Ontario when two men got out of a truck and grabbed her, dragged her inside of the cab and pushed her into a sleeping compartment.

She claimed that while one of the men drove the truck the other repeatedly raped her in the sleeping compartment. She said the men stopped the truck at the van lines depot and she tried to escape. She said she was stopped, beaten and thrown back into the truck. The second driver allegedly raped the woman after her attempted escape.

Later the woman said the men stopped at a restaurant in Whittier where she was tied and gagged and shoved out of the truck into an alley. The woman said she manged to get free and got a cab home.

A police spokesman indicated that the reason a full-scale investigation has been launched into the case is that in the past few months a number of prostitutes at California truck stops have been kidnaped in a similar fashion and several have been driven across the country and brutally murdered. In one case a woman was kidnaped from a Fresno truck stop, driven east and continuously raped. The woman's horribly mutilated body was found later.

Religion issue tied to school vacationing

MIAMI (UPI) — Dade County schools have been ordered to stop scheduling spring vacations around the Easter weekend because the practice has the "direct and immediate effect of advancing religion."

The order by U. S. District Judge C. Clyde Atkins came as a result of a lawsuit filed by Leonard A. Speiller, a social studies teacher who is Jewish.

Atkins also ordered the Dade (Miami) County School Board to allow teachers to use as much of their annual 10 days sick leave as they wish for religious observances. The board had limited use of sick leave for observance of religious holidays to two days a year.

Speiller's suit argued that Christian teachers get paid vacations at Christmas and on Good Friday while non-Christians must take sick leave to observe their religious holidays.

In an opinion issued over the weekend, Atkins ordered the Dade County schools to set spring vacation over a "uniform established period that does not fluctuate from year to year."

However, he ruled that since Christmas always falls on the same date and has a "secular and indeed universal image," the winter recess may continue to coincide with Christmas.

A school official said the 1975 spring vacation had been scheduler for March 24-28. March 28 is good Friday. The official said it would be rescheduled.

Coed can talk to cons, with or without bra

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Bra or no bra, coed Linda Larsen can go on talking to jail inmates.

Ms. Larsen, 20, a Florida State University prelaw student, has a summer job with the Palm Beach County public defender's office. Part of her work involves interviewing county jail prisoners.

When jailers forbade her to talk to prisoners because her lack of a bra "might arouse the inmates," she went to court.

Circuit Judge Lewis Kapner ruled recently that she was being discriminated against on the basis of her sex, and ordered her access to the jail restored.

U.S. seeks new pact for Spanish bases

By PHIL NEWSOM

Within coming weeks, the United States and Spain are expected to begin negotiations for the United States' continued use of its Spanish naval and air bases.

A "declaration of principles" signed by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Spanish Foreign Minister Pedro Cortina as Kissinger's last official act before returning to Washington from his latest European tour recognized that 21 years of military cooperation had served both countries well.

It does not mean, however, that reaching agreement on extension of U.S. rights to air bases at Torrejon and Saragossa plus a standby base at Moron and the Polaris missile submarine base at Rota will come as any automatic gesture.

Both sides have complaints.

During the Arab-Israeli war of October, 1973, Spain refused to permit the United States to use its Spanish bases to support its military airlift to Israel.

The operation could have been a disaster had not Portugal permitted use of the Lajes air base in the Azores as a refueling point.

The Spanish veto led Americans to question the need for the bases if they could not be used in an emergency.

Use of the Spanish air bases had declined in any event as U.S. strategy switched more and more to missiles.

Rota is a different matter. It serves as a support base for submarines and also for some operations of the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean. The overthrow of the Makarios government on Cyprus and mounting tension between Greece and Turkey could enhance the importance of the Spanish bases, both air and naval.

Other elements also enter into the negotiations.

One is Gibraltar and a Spanish desire that the United States pressure Britain to return it to Spain. The British have held it for 270 years.

Also involved is the Spanish wish to become a member of the European Common Market, opposed by Britain and some smaller members of the market out of reluctance to be associated with the authoritarian government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

So far as NATO Is concerned, the Spanish say they have no wish to joint it but they do demand equality with its members so far as their relationships with the United States are concerned.

In part this means a demand for a formal U.S. commitment to go to the defense of Spain. This in turn means a treaty which would have to be approved by the U.S. Senate, considered unlikely.

To this may be added a growing disaffection among the Spanish people themselves toward the bases. A survey taken recently by Actualidad Economica, a business weekly, showed that for every Spaniard who approves the bases there are three who disapprove. Most also felt Spain's foreign policy should follow the lead of the European Common Market community, and not that of the United States.

The United States has refused to intervene in the Gibraltar dispute.

As for mutual defense, a key clause in the "declaration of principles" says that "a threat to or an attack on either country would be a matter of concern to both...."

Spoils of the ocean

The Roman Emperor Caligula, upon arriving at the English Channel in A.D. 40, sent his legions collecting seashells to take the "spoils of the conquered ocean" back to Rome.

Censure--not impeachment -- new talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is now talk in the halls of Congress of censuring rather than impeaching President Nixon.

It could turn out to be nothing more than idle talk, indulged in mostly by reporters and some congressmen, but the possibility has surfaced, with a variey of arguments, pro and con, on censure as a substitute for impeachment.

Some say censure would be a cop-out. Almost everyone is aware of the difficulties of reaching a decision on impeachment. The reluctance of members of Congress to vote for impeachment is understandable. It's hardly like passing a rivers and harbors bill.

It also is understandable that censure is being suggested by some as a means of ending political bickering in the House Judicary Committee, which is nearing completion of its impeachment investigation. It is an inviting thought to find some compromise which Republicans as well as Democrats might support —a compromise perhaps much of the nation could support.

But this would merely paper over problems, say those against censure. They say the President deserves a direct answer from Congress, yes or no, on impeachment; that the nation, too, deserves a clear verdict whether he is guilty or innocent of high crimes and misdeameanors?

Those favoring censure say this course could be the more appropriate punishment to fit the offenses charged to the President . . . their argument goes like this:

Impeachment is an awesome power. It can lead to removal of a President lawfully chosen by the people. It should be used only when the crimes are of a magnitude so as to undermine the government, perhaps weaken it fatally, before the people had a chance to speak again. The crime should be gross and the evidence overwhelming before tampering with the people's choice.

Strongest creature

Snails are among the strongest creatures on earth; a snail weighing 1-3 of an ounce can pull 8 pounds, or nearly 400 times its own weight—the equivalent of a 10 pounds baby hauling an automobile.

This, of course, is for each member of Congress to judge based on the evidence before him. But if the decision is that the crime and the evidence are insufficient for impeachment, should Nixon get off scot free?

Would it mean that Congress was approving his conduct? Would it tempt future Presidents who might be similarly inclined?

Those favoring censure say this would be an adequate deterrent. Censure has been used by Congress itself against its own members who strayed from the straight and narrow, but not sufficiently to be expelled. Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut was censured by the Senate for an offense similar to one of the charges against Nixon —misuse of campaign funds.

Car struck motorcycle in fatal crash

An account of a July 7 double-fatality accident in Monday's Progress-Bulletin incorrectly reported that a motorcycle struck a car stopped in the southbound lane of Pipeline Avenue in Chino.

The story should have read that the car struck the motorcycle, standing motionless without lights in the middle of Pipeline. In that accident the passenger of the motorcycle, Jack W. Bourne, 43, of 4180 Virgo Ave., Chino, was pronounced dead on arrival at Chino General Hospital. The driver of the motorcycle, Stanley Earl Crabaugh, 30, of 4343 Lincoln Ave., Chino, died at Chino General Hospital a week later of multiple injuries suffered in the accident.

The California Highway Patrol reported that the two men on the motorcycle had stopped in the middle of the road to pick up something, possibly a hat, just moments before the crash.

Second person in state gets death penalty

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — John Kreuter, San Carlos, is the second person in California to receive the death penalty under a new law reinstating capital punishment in California under certain conditions.

A jury Tuesday determined that Kreuter, 20, killed Palo Alto housewife Liana Hughes, 30, during the course of a kidnap and rape and thus could get the death penalty.

Kreuter, a male live-in babysitter from San Carlos, was found guilty last Thursday of first-degree murder for the strychnine poisoning of Mrs. Hughes, who disappeared from a Stanford shopping center last Jan. 29.

Her body was found in her camper van in a Burlingame municipal parking lot six days later. An autopsy showed she died of strychnine poisoning, which probably was introduced into her system through alcohol.

Budget, sale of site on Rowland agenda

Trustees of the Rowland School District will consider approval of a publication budget and possible sale of a school site at their meeting tonight.

The board, at is 8 p.m. session at the district office, 1830 Nogales St., will discuss approval of an approximate $20 million fiscal budget for 1974-75.

Sale of the 8-acre Canyon View School site is being considered because of a state law requiring districts to sell surplus sites by 1975. According to officials, the district's growth pattern has "slowed sufficiently" to the point where the site is not needed.

Citizens in the school site area, on the Brea Canyon Cutoff, south of Colima Road, have indicated a desire for a park on the site.

Proposed fertilizer plant

Chino residents rebel against site

Battle lines are again forming between residents on the south-east side of Chino and the Red Star Plant Foods Co. over the company's plans to build a fertilizer processing plant in the area.

The proposed site, about a quarter mile outside Chino city limits, was originally approved by the county Planning Commission last year.

That permit was set aside this spring, however, when angered residents took the matter to court, charging that they were not properly notified of public hearings on the proposal.

The company is now applying for a new permit, with a public hearing scheduled for Thursday, July 25, at 10 a.m. at the Chino Community Building. The hearing is being held by county Environmental Health Services officials.

The Chino City Council and Planning Commission have both approved resolutions opposing the fertilizer plant, but the final decision is purely a county matter.

This time, residents not only plan to protest the fertilizer plant itself, but also county procedures that do not allow the residents any appeal to their elected officials.

"We think it is an unconstitutional delegation of authority," said William McVittie, Chino attorney, who represented the residents in their earlier court battle with the company.

According to McVittie, the county allows a fertilizer processing plant to be built in an agricultural zone with the approval of health officials.

Once that approval is given, McVittie continued, residents have no administrative recourse, not even to the county Board of Supervisors—their only elected officials.

Residents say they fear that county officials already have their minds made up, that the plant will be approved and that their protests are being ignored.

"We feel that Supervisor (Robert) Townsend has been evading the issue," said Mrs. Shirley Swierstra.

In an attempt to swing Townsend to their side, George Zivelonghi, a local resident who formerly lived by a fertilizer plant in Cerritos, will be taking the supervisor on a field trip today to the proposed site and another valley fertilizer plant.

"I lived by a fertilizer plant for seven years," he said, "and I know what the smell and dust can be like. Your friends come to visit and leave in five minutes."

Zivelonghi also warned of greatly increased truck traffic in the area and the need to rebuild local streets to carry that traffic.

Also expected to take part in the outing today is Richard Roberts, director of the county's Environmental Health Services, the man who originally approved the Red Star site.

"We've got to get him to change his mind," said Mrs. Swierstra.

Both she and Zivelonghi say that Roberts approved the Red Star proposal after visiting the company's plant in Downey, where company officials claim there is no deleterious effect to the surrounding neighborhood.

The local residents now claim, however, that at the time Roberts toured the Downey plant it was being operated at only a fraction of its capacity, and that it does not properly reflect the operation that would take place at a new plant in their neighborhood.

At present, the residents are intent on making their objections heard loudly and clearly at the upcoming public hearing.

If they lose the battle again and the company is issued another permit, the war will continue, however.

McVittie said he has no doubts that the residents will take the matter back to court if necessary.

City Hall flooded with calls

No houses selling for $1

Valley city officials say there just seems to be no way of convincing some residents that there are presently no abandoned houses for sale at $1 apiece.

Officials say they continue to receive numerous visits and telephone calls from residents anxious to be included in such a deal despite the public disclaimers issued.

Pomona Mayor Ray J. Lepire said he too has been flooded with inquiries and as a result, was prompted to issue a statement clarifying the status of the proposed legislation involved.

Joseph Korpsak, executive officer of the Valley Association of Cities (VAC), said that at one time 30 to 40 phone calls were coming in following announcement last month of proposed federal legislation to allow the sale of abandoned houses owned by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for $1 each.

"At the present time, the City of Pomona and VAC do not have any HUD abandoned houses for homesteading," the mayor declared.

But despite such disavowments, said Korpsak, "we still have people coming in with their dollars."

Lepire said he would like to clear up the situation once and for all, explaining that on June 20, the House of Repesentatives attached an amendment to the House version of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1974.

"This act would in part establish a program of community development block grants and amend and extend laws relating to housing and urban development. The amendment to this bill was offered by Congresswoman Marjorie S. Holt from Maryland."

"This amendment's purpose is to establish a national homestead program under which single family dwellings owned by HUD may be conveyed to individuals and families who will occupy and rehabilitate them.

"The amendment further indicates that these houses would be available for the payment of $1 and that each applicant will reside in the dwelling for at least five years, that the property will be maintained and rehabilitated (up to standards) and that adequate fire and liability insurance will be carried on the dwelling.

"This same amendment is the bill which was introduced by Congressman Victor Veysey in January 1974.

"The actual status of this amendment is very questionable because it needs to be approved by a joint House-Senate Conference Committee, by the full House and Senate and by the President.

"I have recently requested that this homestead amendment be revised so that the transfer of these homes shall be conveyed only to cities and consortium of cities for disposition in order not to repeat the cycle of abandoned housing.

"In the event this legislation is approved, it will be at least six months before this program could be implemented," Lepire said.

Personnel analyst leaves Pomona post

David J. Simpson is leaving his post Friday as senior personnel analyst for the City of Pomona to accept a post with the Ontario-Montclair School District.

Simpson, 37, will fill the new post of personnel director, working under Charles F. Robar, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel. Simpson will start his new job Aug. 1.

He said he was making the move because of the opportunity for advancement offered.

In a letter of resignation submitted to City Administrator Jerrold Gonce, Simpson said:

"It's difficult to express how much it has meant to me personally and professionally to have served such a fine city and work with so many outstanding people.

"The past seven years have been the most challenging and rewarding in my career. I'm proud to have been a part of the Pomona city family. It will always be a vital part of me."

Simpson began working for city government in September of 1967, filling the then new position of education and safety officer. Years later, his title was changed.

Prior to coming to Pomona, he was for three years industrial engineer and training administrator for Security First National bank in Los Angeles.

He earned a bachelor's degree in industrial psychology from Indiana University in 1962 and from July of that year to June 1964 he worked for U.S. Electrical Motors in Los Angeles.

Simpson is married and has two children. The family lives at 23921 Cholame Drive, Diamond Bar.

Bloodmobile to appear at two local churches

The Pomona Red Cross will set up bloodmobile units at two local churches this weekend.

The South Hills Presbyterian Church, 1170 Fremont St., will be the locale for a portable bloodmobile unit Friday from 2 to 6:30 p.m.

The Rev. Ivan Walks, chairman, is being assisted by Mrs. Eva Ward. Also participating in the bloodmobile are the Rev. Leamond Penn and Mrs. Blanche Horigan, New Gethsemane Church; The Rev. P. Thomas, Mt. Sinai Church of God in Christ; Mrs. Gayle Lasater, White Avenue Baptist Church; Mrs. Bea Wright, Seventh-day Adventist Church; Michale Higgins, Silver Moon Lodge; and Mrs. Dorothy Peters, Neighborhood Adult Participation Project.

On Sunday from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., a bloodmobile is planned at Sacred Heart Catholic Church, 1215 S. Hamilton Blvd. Thomas Scheurell is chairman. Assisting are Mrs. Judy Torres, Mrs. Linda Torres, Mrs. Sadie Ramirez, Mrs. Grace Zeckendorf, Mrs. Frances Cobos and members of the Cal Poly Newman Club.

Also participating in this bloodmobile will be St. Joseph Catholic Church under the chairmansip of Mrs. Thomas McCoun.

Public service course offered at Cal Poly

Cal Poly's social sciences department is offering a new two-unit course, "Careers in Public Service," beginning with fall quarter classes Sept. 19.

Designed to acquaint students with opportunities in public service organizations, the course will cover specific job opportunities and instruction on how to apply for jobs, preparing for civil service examinations, making the most of one's qualifications, and choosing the right career in civil service.

Guest lecturers will include Dr. C. Erwin Piper, chief administrative officer for the city of Los Angeles; representatives of the U.S. Civil Service Commission, the State Personnel Board and the Association of County Governments; and personnel recruiters.

Covered will be federal, state and local governments; agencies such as Vista, the Peace Corps and the United Nations; public and private foundations operating in the public sector; and topics such as welfare, civil rights legal defense, environmental protection, consumer action, and law enforcement programs.

The class, coordinated by social sciences professor Walter P. Coombs and Dr. Otis P. Starkey, will meet for two hours Friday from 8 to 10 a.m.

ORIENTATION

Plan proposed to cut expressway accidents

Motorists traveling on the Corona Expressway during the day will soon be asked to turn on their vehicles' headlights to determine what effect this has on reducing traffic accidents.

The study area extends 11 miles between the Riverside and Pomona freeways and includes that section of winding highway near the Prado Dam.

"The purpose is to make cars on the expressway more visible to motorists on intersecting streets and also to oncoming traffic," said Capt. W. C. Jones, area commander of the California Highway Patrol.

"We will be asking motorists driving in this area during the day to turn their headlights on. There will be a series of signs on both sides of the road to remind them."

This section of the expressway was chosen for the study because of the high number of traffic accidents there and also the severity of injuries to motorists and passengers, he explained.

"During the study period we will keep a close check on all traffic accidents in this area and compare them with previous accident statistics," said Jones.

Opinion

If only Mr. Nixon had moved as fast

On the evening of Monday, April 29, 1974, President Nixon told the nation that he was releasing the Watergate tape transcripts.

Whatever the other consequences of that unprecedented event, it was to lock two of the country's biggest paperback publishers in a race to hit the bookracks first with the largest "instant paperback" in history.

By late Tuesday, April 30, the Government Printing Office had issued the huge 1,308-page document. Two days later, both Bantam Books and Dell Books announced that they were publishing paperback editions, Bantam in collaboration with the New York Times and Dell in combination with the Washington Post.

The story of how Bantam won the race, as told in Inland Printer-American Lithographer magazine, is almost as fascinating as the transcripts themselves.

That same Thursday afternoon, the 1,300-plus pages of copy arrived at W.F. Hall Printing Co.'s plant in Chicago. Overtime shifts were scheduled. Equipment was allocated and production time set aside. Delivery dates for other paperbacks already in production were pushed back.

By air, Hall got the copy to the typesetter, E.T. Lowe Publishing Co. in Nashville, by 10 p.m. Thursday. Within an hour it was being set by four tape-driven linecasters and four manual linotypes. A team of seven proofreaders checked each galley proof twice.

Working around the clock, Lowe finished setting the transcripts' more than 250,000 words by 4 a.m. Saturday, May 4. There was a pause while typesetters waited for the book's introduction and other editorial material, which two Bantam editors delivered from New York at 6 p.m.

Typesetting was completed early Sunday morning and by 11 a.m. Lowe had started making up page forms. The Bantam editors supervised last-minute changes. As soon as the pages were locked up and approved, Lowe began making the first of 148 six-page bakelite molds.

Everything went smoothly and by mid-Saturday it became apparent that Lowe was going to beat its scheduled Monday deadline by hours. Because the next commercial flight from Nashville to Chicago was not until Monday morning, a private jet was engaged. The jet hurried from Cincinnati to Nashville and left for Chicago about 8 p.m. Sunday with the first load of molds. In Chicago, it turned around for Nashville to pick up the Bantam editors and the remaining molds, arriving in Chicago shortly after midnight.

The molds were rushed to Hall's plant, where vulcanizers turned out the book's rubber plates in eight hours, averaging about 110 plates an hour. The plates were then rushed to another Hall plant in the city and by 8 a.m. Monday, were on the offset presses.

In the meantime, four-color art for the book's cover had arrived at Regensteiner Press in Chicago on Saturday. Plates were ready late Sunday and the job began running by 1 a.m. Monday. It was off the press four hours later. The covers were then delivered in 2,000-sheet lifts to Hall's bindery, where they were varnished and cut apart.

At 6 p.m. Monday, the first of an eventual 1,400,000 copies came off the bindery line. Elapsed time from deliery of copy to finished product: 91 hours.

As the books came out of the bindery, they were packed in 10-and 25-book cartons, about 7 p.m. Monday, the first skid of books was wheeled onto a truck waiting to hustle them to O'Hare Airport. Within 12 hours, more than 100,000 copies had been bound and shipped.

About 5,000 copies arrived at District News Co. in Washington at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday, May 7. By 8 a.m., the first copies, (expletives deleted) and all, were on sale at the Trover Book Shop on Pennsylvania Avenue, one block from the White House.

Add injury to injury?

One of the greatest con games going on in this country — the selling of worthless real estate to people who let the vision of dollar signs cloud their better judgment — has taken a cute twist.

Disproving the old saying that once burned is twice shy, the smooth-talking muggers in white shirts, some of whom sold the subdivided desert or swampland in the first place, have come up with the idea of resale listing services. For a measly $100 or $200 (payable in advance), they will include your lot(s) in a list which they will publish and distribute to potential buyers.

As they tell it in their high-pressure spiel, there are all kinds of investors eager to snap up real estate for maybe double what you paid for it. Many of them, they say, are foreigners who, because of the devaluation of the dollar, are lusting after U.S. land.

But, of course, you must act now!

For thousands of lot owners, feeling that throwing a little good money after a great deal of bad may be the only way they can ever recoup their "investments," the bait has been irresistible — never mind that no ethical real estate salesman expects fee before he produces a sale.

Apparently, not much can be done about it because the con men do not actually promise to sell the lots. They do just what they say they will do, and that is to list them for resale.

Why another agency?

Ralph Nader's recent letter suggesting your readers write their senators regarding S-707 (Consumer Protection Agency) was excellent advice. First, however, they should get all the facts and then write the senators as to how they want them to vote. Heeding the advice of a person with the track record of Mr. Nader without first getting enough information to make an intelligent decision is as irresponsible as many of his activities. His statement that the Consumers Protection Agency would not operate as another large government bureaucracy is hard to believe.

For example we have, as he mentioned, a Department of Transportation charged with making vehicles safe: the Food and Drug Administration charged with keeping harmful ingredients out of food and drink, and harmful drugs off the market; the Federal Energy Administration for the control of items produced by manufacturers under their jurisdiction. Why then do we need another agency to ride herd on those we now have. If they are not doing their job, then write your senator and congressman to take action to correct that problem.

Please do not ask them to create any more agencies to protect us from ourselves. It is hard to believe that with the millions of dollars Congress has made available for education that the public is still stupid enough to believe the false advertising; be taken in by worthless warranties and deceptive packaging; and to continue to purchase unsafe goods and services. Mr. Nader states that these practices tarnish the good name of reputable business. There is the answer. If we do business with reputable firms, people we can trust, we do not have to worry about being taken. It is our own greed and always wanting to get something for nothing that makes us vulnerable to the activities of the unscrupulous business house.

If you are interested in having something done about runaway inflation, then write your congressman to initiate legislation to cut the excessive spending by the government. That is the only way to put a halt to the everyday upward trend of the cost of living. Your readers should not take my suggestion any more than Mr. Nader's. Get all the facts first and then write your letters.

I hear people say that Ralph Nader is sincere in what he is campaigning for. I think they are right and that is what scares me. — Joe Haley, La Verne.

FDA taking new look at fluoridation

WASHINGTON — Half of America today drinks fluoridated water to avert cavities. Yet federal authorities are suddenly taking another belated look at its safety and effectiveness.

This could revive the great fluoridation controversy of 20 years ago, although the authorities are going about it cooly and quietly.

The fluoride fighters of the 1950s regarded the addition of fluoride to drinking water as a "Communist plot" to brainwash the American people.

For those who have forgotten or are too young to remember, there really were "little old ladies in tennis shoes" passing out pamphlets in the aisles of New York subways. There were town marches and angry campaigns. The Daughters of the American Revolution were aghast.

But gradually, the tide turned. The Public Health Service led the fight for fluoridation. Congressional hearings in 1961 seemed to show fluroride was safe and didn't build up in the body.

In 1961, 70 communities turned to fluoride. Another 100 added fluoride to their tap water in 1962.

The fluroide fighters all but fell apart in 1966 when they lost their final battle in New York City. American dentists helped sound the death knell by putting their official seal on fluoridated Crest, to the envy and outrage of less resourceful dentifrice peddlers.

Soon the doughy Daughters stood almost alone, with some last-ditch, anti-fluoride fanatics manning mimeo machines. But a few worried scientists had their own private reservations. Within the last few days, the Food and Drug Administration has taken some careful, tentative steps to reconsider fluoridation.

The FDA is moving at the insistence of a California Institute of Technology biologist who is so reluctant to make his findings public that he begged us to kill this story. The quiet scientist is Dr. Edward Groth II, whose hesitant conclusions come from study of 1,000 papers and countless abstracts, books, summaries and scientific publications.

One June 3, with much hedging and apology, Groth wrote to Dr. Lloyd Tepper, FDA's energetic associate commissioner, himself a student of anti-cavity additives.

"I must admit to being a bit reluctant to write to you on this subject," he told Tepper, "since I do not want to get into a position of supporting the opponents of fluoridation, with whom I have little sympathy."

Groth said he recognized that the body of research seeming to "support the effectiveness and safety of fluoridation is enormous. And there is an apparently overwhelming consensus among experts that (fluoridation) reduces dental caries some 60 per cent, without any adverse effects on any person."

That duly acknowledged, Groth proceeds to make a devastating case for reopening the files on fluoridation.

For one thing, he observes, the Public Health Service was involved in a gigantic conflict of interest at the time of the fluoride fever.

The fluoridation idea, as Groth explains it, "was developed by the dental branch of PHS, and the evaluation of the adequacy of the evidence was conducted primarily by PHS scientists and by other outside scientists who were also very much involved in the development and promotion of the measure."

The key studies, said Groth, lacked even "the most basic elements of 'blind' design" which ensure total objectivity. Besides, factors such as the subjects' dental care, diet and fluoride intake were never even cranked into the studies, he reported.

More ominously, Groth wrote, "there is still not adequate evidence, despite numerous statements from high places to the contrary, that (fluoridation) is without appreciable risk."

All these considerations were brushed aside 20 years ago because of "the political controversy which swirled around fluoridation." The heat of the debate "made it expedient to have as firm a scientific statement as possible, and as early in the game as possible," Groth concluded.

PAUL HARVEY

Some of our best men are women

It was William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, who said, "Some of my best men are women."

Now we're hearing a similar endorsement from the police chief of Miami, Fla.: "Some of my best men are women."

The very idea of "women policemen" was antithetical in 1970. Grudgingly, and under pressure, the Miami Police Department had hired its first seven women in 1971 and those only for clerical jobs.

Today the Miami department includes 30 women, and Police Chief Bernard Garmire says there is no type of police work for which a woman is not qualified and for some types she is "better qualified."

Eighty per cent of the calls to which a policeman responds do not involve a physical confrontation. Those calls do require compassion, empathy, instinctive psychology. But, says Chief Garmire, even in the other 20 per cent "women are proving to be good crime fighters."

Whereas previosly he employed policewomen only in such specialized units as vice, criminal investigation and traffic control — and this remains the prevalent practice in most cities — Garmire now has assigned uniformed women "indiscriminately" to all types of police work...

His female officers perform the same duties and work in the same areas as male officers. Miami is the first city in our nation to appoint a female sergeant in command of a patrol sector.

Miami is first to put a woman on a three-wheel patrol motorcycle. Miami has female police officers riding alone in high-crime areas — receiving and responding to all calls in their zone.

When backup cars are summoned policewomen receive no favoritism. Women officers are required to maintain firearms proficiency up to department standards.

During one recent month, one female officers was credited with eight felony arrests, five felony assists and 16 misdemeanor arrests.

Last November, a woman officer was nominated for the department's "most outstanding officer" citation based or her impressive record of 13 felony and 23 misdemeanor arrests while traveling alone on the midnight shift.

In neither the traffic nor the criminall sections — knock on wood — has there been any serious injuries to women. The rate of "resisting arrest" by female officers is negligible.

There have been few, if any, complaints about women police officers being discourteous, using abusive language, obstructing civil rights, using too much force.

The female officers, according to Chief Garmire, are accepted by the public and by their fellow officers without perceptible resentment.

Lawmen have always prided themselves in the degree of their "professionalism." Now lawwomen do. Indeed, in trying harder to measure up, in many instances they are excelling.

Just in jest

In a world gone inflation mad I have often co soled myself with the thought that at least 5 ce chewing gum would weather the storm. Then th raised the price to 7 sticks for 10 cents and no another price raise is about to go into effect. —It enough to drive a person to drink! But you know maybe that's the answer. At least drinking is s mething we can still do without suffering too mu financial anxiety. In 1954 one had to work 2.6 hou to get enough money to buy a fifth of whiskey b today that same fifth of whiskey requires only 1 hours of work.

TOM TIEDE

Be the first one on your block...

WASHINGTON — They are calling the President John Atomseed now. And while he plants the globe with nucle reactors, there is talk the human race may reap disaster.

Besides the obvious worry that an Egypt or an Israel mig as India, turn the sprouts of peaceful pursuit into the foliage war, there is perhaps an even greater risk: as atomic ma rials spread in the world, so do the chances of their diversio It is not science fiction to imagine someone soon, someo such as the Palestine guerrillas, stealing the fuels with whi to make their own terrible big bomb.

There still may be some who doubt the possibility of t backyard A-bomb. Dr. Theodore Taylor, perhaps the nation most eminent designer of fission booms, says he occasionall talks with sophisticated physicists who "cling to the notion th a nuclear explosive has to be the product of massive a expensive technology."

Yet Taylor says he alone could make a bomb in a baseme in two weeks. He knows of schoolchildren who have on pap at least drawn crude but workable facsimilies, and he insis that anyone in any nation, given the fuels and ordinary expe tise, could build a one-shot or even start an arsenal.

Taylor's opinion, once dismissed as nonsense, is almost matter of fact today. At least in the United States. He ha warned so long and effectively about the gambles of insecu nuclear fuels that the Atomic Energy Commission has bee forced to redesign its methods of fuel accountability, storag and — particularly — transportation.

Where once commercial plutonium and (highly enriched uranium was delivered across the nation, in much the sam way as household furniture :in common, unguarded carriers) now the thinking is to transport in impenetrable trucks whic can be disabled by remote control in case of hijack.

The fuel safeguards in America are by no means invulne rable as yet, but Taylor says there is a positive effort o improvement underway. No such optimism, however, can b applied to the international scene.

The United States has some 30 agreements with 29 nation concerning atomic exchange and the AEC says there ar safeguard strings attached to each contract; in fact, th agreements center largely around accountability of fuels (ho much is used and for what) and not physical security.

Dr. Taylor says most countries with nuclear reactors hav their own ideas on how to protect them and the United State can do very little but suggest.

The implications here are a bit atomic in themselves. Taylo estimates it would take only 5 to 10 kilograms of proper fuel t make a crude fission bomb. This much is routinely being shipped in single carriers dozens of times a year in America and today, very often in the world.

If the stuff is not hijacked, or bagged by dishonest handlers it does not take much imagination to figure out an alternative method of diversion.

"Suppose," says Dr. Taylor, "someone captures 100 school children and then demands 10 kilograms of fuel as ransom." This could be done now in America of France. In the shor future, it could be done in places like Egypt or Pakistan Countries as obscure as Zaire are currently operating an adding to nuclear power plants.

As of now in America, the AEC says there has been "n illegal diversion nor any suspicion of illegal diversion" o atomic fuels. The same guarantee does not necessarily hol for other nations. Even today, authorities agree, it is possibl that unofficial foreigners are working on internationally pi fered goods. Next week, in other words, some plane hijac may really make headlines.

Taylor is only one who views the "peaceful" proliferation o nuclear knowhow as ominous. A growing number of worrie agree with him that unless stringent safeguards are written in all U.S.-foreign nation nuclear contracts, and unless inte national atomic security is soon redoubled, "I would be oppose to any further nuclear development, for peaceful or any othe purpose."

Garage is looted; Uplanders arrested

Two Upland men seen breaking into a garage and stealing a trunk, folding chairs, a gas can and other items at 403 W. Sunkist Ave. Ontario Tuesday morning were nabbed by police less than a mile from the scene of the burglary.

Donald Ray Langenegger, 21, of 545 N. Sixth St., Upland, and Everett John Verdeef, 30 of 333 W. 17th St., Upland, were booked in the West End Jail Wednesday on suspicion of burglary after they were apprehended by Ontario Police Sgt. Bill Carpenter and Officer Myrl Walter.

According to police reports the two men were seen loading the stolen property in a van parked behind the Sunkist Avenue address by the homeowner Vera Riley.

Coordinator appointed for Brown

Mike Lippitt, 28, of San Bernardino, has been appointed San Bernardino County coordinator for the Brown for Governor campaign.

He will be responsible for communication between the state headquarters and county groups. Lippitt, who heads a social planning agency, will also help direct the local drive to register 5,000 new Democratic voters and set up the "get-out-the-vote mechanism" for the November general election.

Continuing as Brown campaign chairman for the Inland area will be Robert Peach, a San Bernardino attorney. Peach will assist Bob Cooley, a businessman, in overseeing finance committee operations and work to include as many groups as possible in leadership roles on the Brown steering committee.

Upland trustees elect officers

Ehrnman, a senior vice president and controller of the First National Bank and Trust Co. in Ontario, was first elected to the board in April of 1971. He lives with his wife and three children at 892 Bennington St. in Upland.

Ehrnman attended Chaffey High School, Chaffey College and Claremont Men's College. For eight years he was a national bank examiner with the U.S. Treasury Department. He joined the First National Bank and Trust Co. in 1966 as a controller.

Ehrnman takes over the post from William S. Rugg, who has held the post for four years.

William F. Emrich has been elected clerk of the board of trustees for the school district, and Dorothy S. Gibson retains her post as vice-president of the board.

Lunar mission recalled; 'The eagle has landed'

Moon landing celebrates 5th anniversary this week

By BRUCE E. HICKS
UPI Science Writer

HOUSTON (UPI) — After a decade in the public limelight, the furious activity has slowed.

Man's dramatic moon adventure, culminating in the first lunar landing five years ago this week, has turned into routine business, and the men who overcame formidable obstacles have rechanneled their talents.

It took just five years.

On July 20, 1969, at a campus-like facility, many thousands of engineers, technicians, bureaucrats, scientists, reporters and astronauts nervously awaited the culmination of years of work, sweat and tragic death.

It came with a few short words:

"Houston, Transquility Base here. The Eagle has landed."

Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin set the lunar landing craft Eagle on the moon's surface as Michael Collins orbited above in the mother ship Columbia.

The Manned Spacecraft Center, renamed last year the Johnson Space Center, reverberated with cheers and tears of happiness. Today the future, though not bleak, holds only a hint of the spirit and adventure that once captivated the world.

The 1,620-acre center houses 33 per cent fewer workers than at its peak in the summer of 1969. There are only 3,800 civil service and 5,907 contractor employes compared with the 4,751 civil service and 9,892 contractors then.

Gone is the laboratory that housed the 838 pounds of moon rocks and dust returned by the six lunar landings.

Reassigned are the flight directors who commanded the ground teams which solved the constant problems of spaceflight.

Dormant is the mission control room which watched over and guided the journeys.

Of the 21 men who flew the six moon landing missions—and the aborted Apollo 13 flight— only 10 are active astronauts.

The Apollo 11 pilots all are gone from NASA. Armstrong became a professor of engineering at the University of Cincinnati. Aldrin, who had a nervous breakdown following the flight, has formed a consulting business in California and wrote his autobiography. Collins is director of the National Air and Space Museum of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, and has written a book, "Carrying the Fire."

Some others drifted to different government positions, a few sought privacy, most went to private business. The Apollo 15 crew erred in judgment and tried to capitalize on their taxpaid mission by taking along hundreds of unauthorized postal covers. David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin received reprimands and left the corps amid a flurry of new regulations on the spacemen's personal flight bags.

Alan B. Shepard Jr., America's first man in space and commander of Apollo 14, reportedly soon will retire, and recently stepped out of his position as chief of the astronaut corps. He remained as chief adviser to his predecessor, John W. Young, who commanded Apollo 16.

The only scientist to make the lunar trek, Dr. Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt, the geologist on Apollo 17, was named in May to head an energy research office for NASA in Washington.

Others who have departed include Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr., vice president of a cable television firm in Denver; Richard F. Gordon Jr., vice president of the New Orleans Saints pro football team; James A. Lovell, vice president of a Houston barge company; and Edgar D. Mitchell, president of a research firm studying mental telepathy and other psychic phenomena.

Out of the original 73 pilots and scientists selected as astronauts since April, 1959, only 35 are left. Eight have died, including the first three men of the Apollo program—Virgil I. "Gus" Grissom, Roger G. Chaffee and Edward H. White—who perished in a fire on the launching pad.

Several of the men of space who remain are working in administrative areas far removed from the pilot seat of a spacecraft. Very few will know the feeling of surging power as a spaceship rockets from Earth.

Only the joint U.S.-Soviet flight in July, 1975, remains before the onset of the long-range Space Shuttle program late this decade and early next. The reusable shuttle will launch like a rocket and land like an airplane to be the workhorse of space, making many trips into orbit for the price of one moon flight.

Two once-critical areas of the space center no longer are beehives of activity, and both virtually have been gutted.

One is the third floor mission operations control room which teemed with the noise of earthlings talking to the first men on the moon. A duplicate room on the second floor housed the flight controllers for the duration Skylab flights last year and will be used for the U.S.-Soviet flight in 1975.

Mission control for Apollo 11 has been stripped of its important components. It was used as a set for a television movie and officials said it is unlikely the famous room ever will see service again.

The second area which has been all but dismantled is the lunar receiving laboratory, where all the moon rocks were sorted and initial studies performed. An estimated $2.8 million in equipment was shipped last year to the Atomic Energy Commission Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory for use in laser-energy research. Other gear has gone to other labs.

The flight control teams who worked in shifts around the clock during the 10-to-14-day lunar missions and the months-long Skylab flights largely have been broken up. The split-second decisions of the leaders of those teams—the flight directors—made the difference between success and failure on nearly every space mission flown by this country.

Glynn S. Lunney now is the technical director for the joint Soviet mission and also heads the Apollo spacecraft program office.

Gerald Griffin is solving bureaucratic problems as assistant administrator in the NASA office of legislative affairs in Washington. Eugene Kranz is deputy director of flight operations at the center and Milton Windler is in the office of orbiter-atmospheric flight test office for Space Shuttle. Clifford E. Charlesworth is program manager for earth resources.

And so, many of the facilities are gone and so are many of the men from the halcyon days five years ago when newspaper headlines

Men of first moon landing

Where are they?

Neil A. Armstrong

The commander of Apollo 11, the man who will go down in history as being the first to step onto the moon, is the most reticent of the crew. Armstrong, 43, became associate NASA administrator for aeronautics and now is professor of aerospace engineering at the University of Cincinnati, teaching courses in dynamics and flight testing. He lives on a farm 30 miles north of Cincinnati with his wife, Jan, and their two sons, Eric, 17, and Mark, 11. His associates call him a warm individual. He sometimes goes to great lengths to avoid the public spotlight. He participates in Boy Scout activities, does make an occasional speech for a fee and recently participated in a television advertisement.

Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin

The Apollo 11 lunar module pilot, second man to walk on the moon, returned to the Air Force as commandant of the Air Force Aerospace School but retired in 1972 after having what he described as "a good old American nervous breakdown." Aldrin, 44, still has periods of depression, but is on the road to recovery and is serving as National Mental Health chairman this year. He has described his problems in a book, "Return to Earth" and is planning a second book to describe for high school students his moon experiences and observations. He also has formed a small engineering and research consulting company. Aldrin lives with his wife, Joan, and their children, James, 18, Janice, 16, and Andrew, 16, in Hidden Hills, Calif., a rustic area in the San Fernando Valley.

Michael Collins

The pilot of the command ship Columbia remained in orbit while his colleagues walked the moon. Collins left NASA shortly after the mission to become assistant secretary of state for public affairs. He found that was not his cup of tea, as he puts it, and is now director of the Smithsonian Institution's National Air and Space Museum. Collins, 43, says he likes being out of the limelight, but has written a book, "Carrying the Fire" due to be published July 20 (Farrar, Straus and Girolix), describing his experienies as an astronaut. He lives in Washington with his wife, Pat, and their three children, Kathleen, 15, Ann, 12, and Michael, 11.

Ray attorneys ask more time

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Attorneys for James Earl Ray asked a federal judge Tuesday to delay a scheduled Sept. 30 hearing on Ray's motion for a new trial for three weeks to give them time to gather witnesses.

Ray's attorneys contend he was coerced into pleading guilty to the April 4, 1968, assassination of Martin Luther King Jr. by his former attorney, Percy Foreman of Houston, and author William Bradford Huie of Birmingham, Ala.

U.S. District Judge Robert McRae ruled earlier he cannot force witnesses who live more than 100 miles from Memphis to appear at the hearing. Ray's lawyers said they need the extra time to "invite voluntary witnesses."

Here's summary of the 11 project Apollo flights

Apollo 7

Astronauts Walter M. Schirra, Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham flew the Apollo command ship for 11 days in Earth orbit on its first manned test flight, Oct. 11 to 22, 1968.

Apollo 8

Frank Borman, James A. Lovell and William A. Anders sailed into orbit around the moon for the first time, circling it 10 times, from Dec. 21 to 27, 1968.

Apollo 9

James A. McDivitt, David R. Scott and Russell L. Schweickart flew the Apollo lunar module for the first time with the command ship in Earth orbit, from March 3 to 13, 1969.

Apollo 10

Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan flew the whole Apollo assembly, the lunar module and command ship, into 31 orbits around the moon on the final test flight, May 18 to 26, 1969.

Apollo 11

Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin carried out the first manned lunar landing mission, with Armstrong and Aldrin landing in the spacecraft Eagle on the Sea of Tranquility while Collins remained in lunar orbit. The two stayed 21 hours and 36 minutes on the moon, performed one moonwalk and returned with 45 pounds of lunar samples, July 16 to 24, 1969.

Apollo 12

Charles "Pete" Conrad, Richard F. Gordon and Alan L. Bean carried out the second lunar landing mission. Conrad and Bean landed in the spacecraft Intrepid, stayed on the moon 31 hours and 31 minutes, performed two moonwalks and returned with 75 pounds of lunar material, Nov. 14 to 24, 1969.

Apollo 13

Lovell, John L. Swigert and Fred W. Haise barely escaped with their lives on the third lunar landing mission. An oxygen tank exploded in their command ship en route to the moon and they had to use their landing craft as a lifeboat to return home after looping the moon, April 11 to 17, 1970.

Apollo 14

Alan B. Shepard, Stuart A. Roosa and Edgar D. Mitchell flew to the moon in a modified command ship with Shepard and Mitchell landing in an area called Fra Mauro. They spent 33 hours and 32 minutes there, collecting 94 pounds of moon rocks on two walks. The mission lasted from Jan. 31 to Feb. 9, 1971.

Apollo 15

Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin set out on the first truly lunar exploration mission. Scott and Irwin landed in the Hadley-Apennine valley, used a moon car during three excursions from their spacecraft and stayed on the moon 66 hours and 55 minutes, collecting 169 pounds of moon material, from July 26 to Aug. 8, 1971.

Apollo 16

Young, Thomas K. Mattingly and Charles M. Duke flew to a hilly part of the moon known as the Descartes Formation, with Young and Duke landing. They used a moon car during three excursions, stayed on the moon 71 hours and 2 minutes and returned with 210 pounds of samples, from April 16 to 27, 1972.

Apollo 17

Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and Dr. Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt, a geologist, carried out the final lunar exploration known as Taurus-Littrow. They drove a moon car during three excursions lasting a record 44 hours, stayed on the moon a record 75 hours and returned with a record 257 pounds of samples, from Dec. 7 to 19, 1972.

LIFTOFF—The 363-foot-high Apollo Saturn V space vehicle lifting off here is typical of the blastoffs in the 11 project apollo lights.

Medics perfect bloodless brain surgery technique

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Two Pittsburgh doctors announced that they had perfected a new technique for performing bloodless brain surgery at Montefiore Hospital.

Dr. Robert Selker and Dr. Sidney Wolfson said they had used the technique on five patients, many of them with brain tunors, with apparent success. Dr. Selker said Montefiore is the only hospital in the world using the method.

The doctors stop the patient's heart with an electric shock, then send a solution of cold fluid into the body through a main neck artery. The fluid selectively chills each organ to a point where it will not operate but will not be permanently damaged.

"Metabolic processes continue in the tissues," Wolfson said.

Electrical activity from the brain stops and there is no heart action.

The doctors then perform surgery.

The patient is revived by a balloon inserted under the breast bone and by adrenalin. The balloon massages the heart when it is inflated and deflated rhythmically.

United's lowest Layaway Fare yet.

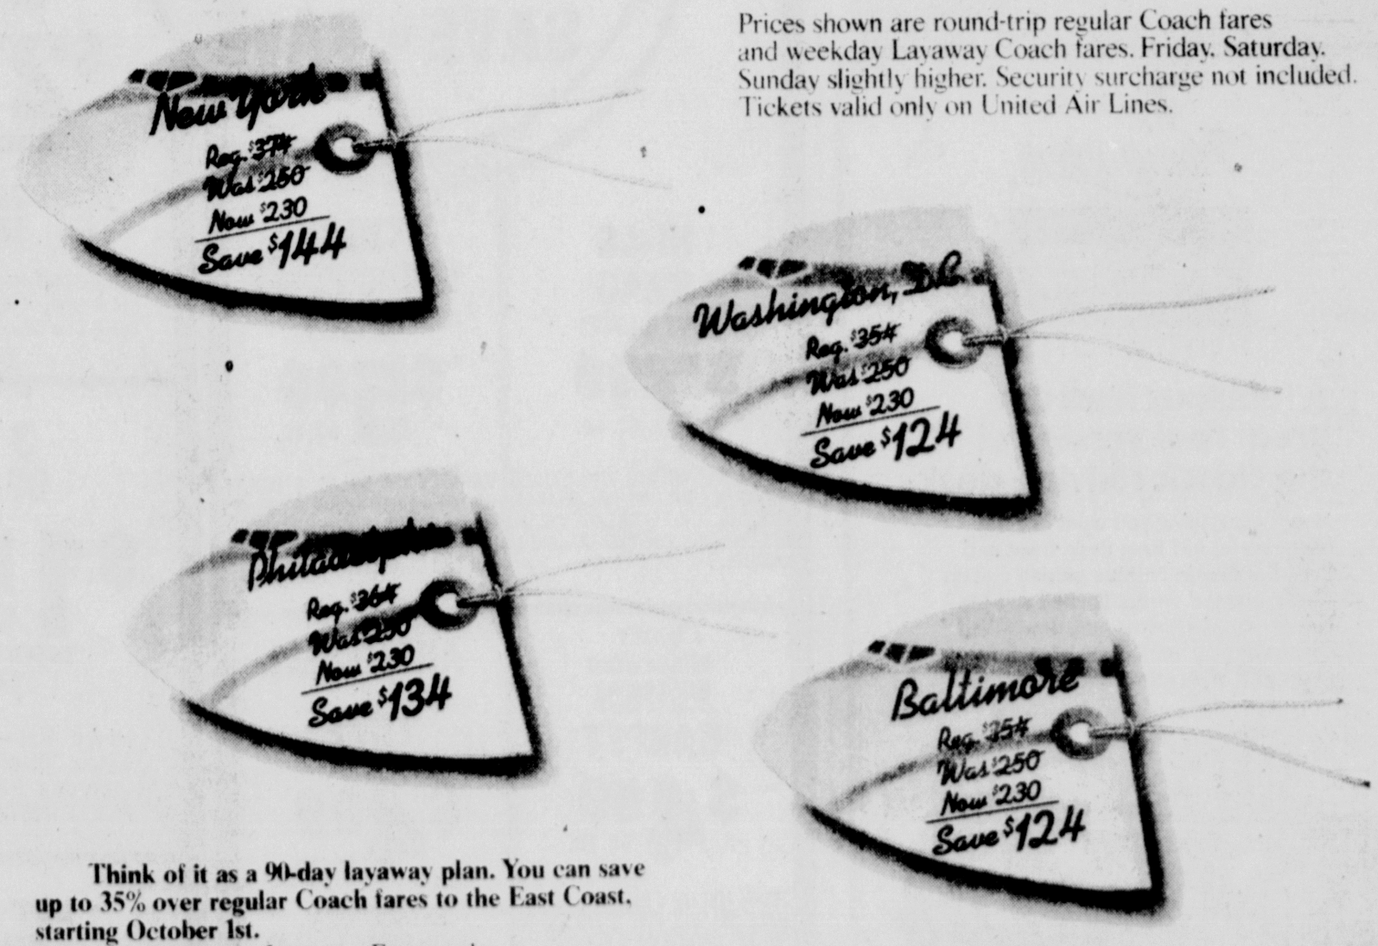
Prices shown are round-trip regular Coach fares and weekday Layaway Coach fares. Friday, Saturday, Sunday slightly higher. Security surcharge not included. Tickets valid only on United Air Lines.



Think of it as a 90-day layaway plan. You can save up to 35% over regular Coach fares to the East Coast, starting October 1st.

Here's how our Layaway Fare works:

By making a $40 non-refundable deposit at least 90 days in advance of when you want to leave, we'll confirm your date of departure.

Then you have to pay the balance of your fare at least 45 days prior to departure. We'll tell you your exact flight and departure time within 30 to 45 days before you leave. Whenever possible, we'll fly you nonstop. Otherwise, it will be a convenient one-stop or connecting flight.

That's all there is to it. There's no minimum or maximum time you have to stay. And if you want to, you can use your United Air Lines Travel Card to charge it.

United's Layaway Fare can do more than just save you money. You can take care of all your travel arrangements well in advance of your trip. And you can arrange for hotel and car rental packages when you make your Layaway arrangements.

Layaway Fare round trip to the above cities is only $230.00 Monday through Thursday and $260.00 Friday, Saturday and Sunday. And you can purchase our Layaway Fare on a one-way basis, if you wish.

Layaway Fare seats available on any given day are limited. The new low fare quoted is effective on flights leaving October 1st through March 31, 1975, with certain dates unavailable during this period. All prices subject to change.

So don't delay. Call United at 983-1721. Or ask your Travel Agent to book you on United. Plan ahead and take advantage of United's Layaway Fares to the East Coast.

To understand moon

Scientists still puzzled; more planet trips needed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the five years since man first set foot on the moon, scientists have pieced together a relatively clear picture of the moon's history once it reached its present size. But left unanswered is how it got that way in the first place.

"This question is unanswerable now," said Dr. Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt, first geologist to explore the moon as a member of the final lunar landing mission, Apollo 17. "We have increased the number of constraints but we have not answered the question."

Schmitt, now an assistant NASA administrator for energy programs, said in an interview that more planetary exploration will be necessary before man will learn enough to understand how the moon, the earth and the rest of the solar system formed.

"It's certainly going to require a major continuation of the exploration of the nonterrestrial planets," he said. "Jupiter is so big it dominates the solar system. Until you understand Jupiter, really until you understand Jupiter and Saturn, you're a long way from understanding the solar system.

"The terrestrial planets are extremely important because we're on one of them. But in terms of what dominated the origin of the solar system, Jupiter has to be a critical factor. We know something about Jupiter now, but we know very little compared to what it's probably going to take in order to understand how the sequence of events developed that formed both the sun and Jupiter."

Schmitt said the moon will continue to make a major contribution to the effort by serving as an archive of some of the debris that accumulated to form the planets.

"It has been much less affected by events since its creation than has the earth," he said. "A lot of things have happened on the moon, but much of the record still seems to be there. All we have gotten so far is hints. It's going to take a much more systematic study of this archieve if we are to use it."

Another major question not yet answered by the Apollo lunar exploration, Schmitt said, is how does the evolution of the moon as now understood relate to the early evolution of the earth?

RTD says commuters can save $1,100 yearly

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — commuters who switch from cars to mass transportation can save about $1,100 a year and cut down on traveling time, a study commissioned by the Rapid Transit District reported.

The RTD commissioned the study at a cost of $35,000 to show the impact a proposed fixed-rail and busway system would have on the Los Angeles area.

The RTD has already adopted a 175-mile system for initial construction within a 240-mile master plan of such a network.

A spokesman for the district said the study was not intended as a "whitewash" for the proposal.

He said the study was made because the district had been criticized for failing to completely look into the effect mass transit would have on congestion, travel costs, travel times and other aspects of community life.

The study, conducted by Arthur D. Little Inc., a consulting-research firm, said an average commuter could save about $1,100 a year by switching from car transportation to the transit system.

The study said automobiles would continue to be the primary source of transportation for Los Angeles residents, but a one-car family could save as much as $1,900 annually by using mass transit instead of investing in a second car.

Time-savings comparisons were made using the years 1974 and 1990.

For example, it now takes a motorist 53 minutes to travel by car from Torrance to Hollywood, but the same trip in 1990 could be made by rapid transit in 43 minutes.

A trip from Van Nuys to El Segundo, now 40 minutes by car, could be reduced by 11 minutes.

State wants a blacksmith

MONTGOMERY, Alabama (UPI) — In the age of the jet and the moonwalk the state of Alabama is looking for a blacksmith— "no written examination required."

The salary ranges from $6,019 to $7,878 a year.

CONSERVATION MEDAL — Conservation as a world-wide concern is exemplified by this stylized Arabian oryx featured on a State of Israel medal commemorating the 10th anniversary of the nation's conservation agency. From an original painting by wildlife artist Guy Coheleach, the design publicizes the agency's reintroduction on biblical animals, such as the oryx, into the Holy Land.

Police gun down man with a gun

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — It was a tragic day around the intersection of Lullaby Lane and Serenade Way.

Fatally shot was a young man who caused the excitement and gunfire by menacing the neighborhood with a pellet gun.

Eddie Wayne Swope, 22, was shot to death by police when he turned the deceptively formidable-looking gun on them as they approached him on the street.

Officers said they heard shots whizzing past them. A man had been reported brandishing a gun, firing at cars and threatening children.

When two policemen got out of their patrol car and approached the man, he turned the gun on them. They opened fire. Swope was killed.

Four blocks away, a motorcycle policeman rushing to the scene struck 11-year-old Gloria Mirelez. Her ankle was broken.

The gun that Swope was carrying and using wildly on the street belonged to Chuck Bechtel, who lived with roommate Michael Hall near the intersection.

Swope had visited Hall, appeared to be acting erratic and belligerent and had taken the gun. Bechtel's girlfriend called police. A few moments later calls came from a motorist who said he had been fired on, and from neighbors about the man walking around with a gun. One mother said the man took a puppy from a child at gunpoint.

It was only a few minutes later the excitement was over at Lullaby Lane and Serenade Way.

At the hospital where Swope died from a police bullet in his head it was learned that he had been there earlier in the day, complaining about having taken an overdose of aspirin. Before he could be attended to, he walked out of the hospital.

The doctor comments

Family is troubled by changing parents

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—My inquiry is about menopause. My mother is going through it.

I've recently returned from a visit with my parents, and although we frequently correspond, I was unaware of my mom's condition. Is it natural when a "hot flash" occurs to suddenly break out in a sweat and be cold at the same time? I realize there would be personality changes and a physical change. My parents have gained at least 150 pounds each in a year's time. Their obesity is excused because of the hardships of menopause.

They are not under a doctor's care. I'm wondering if they shouldn't be, even for a good diet.

My parents were always weight conscious and often "watched" what they ate. A couple of years ago they could pass for my older brother and sister. Today they can easily pass for my grandparents. My brothers accept all of this as the change of life cycle. I've been away from the family for a few years and just returned to the United States after a two-year absence. Am I the one overreacting to this new state of life?

DEAR READER—Even allowing for a little exaggeration, the weight gain you describe is really unnecessary. Nothing makes a person look older faster than gaining a lot of excess fat. Obesity is directly related to medical problems, for example vascular diseases.

Women to tend to gain weight with the menopause but your father is not having a menopause, he is suffering from obesity. A big factor in weight gain after 40 is a sudden decrease in the amount of calories the body uses at rest. That is often caused by a loss of muscle. We use a lot of energy at rest because muscles need energy even while we are sitting still. A muscular, heavy laborer uses more energy at rest than a fat man of the same weight.

The loss of muscle is related to inactivity. A great deal can be done to prevent this problem with regular daily exercise, not just walking but strengthening exercise also that maintains the size of the muscles. Actually, a person should increase his physical activity as he gets older to avoid the middle-aged spread. With inactivity, and often boredom, people often begin to overeat.

Your parents do need a doctor. A real effort should be made to reverse the trend. Happily, it is reversible, including a lot of the fatty deposits that accumulate in arteries.

The hot flashes are uncomfortable, and it is possible to have hot and cold sensations. Something can be done to control those problems, too. For more information write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019 and ask for the booklet on menopause. Send 50 cents to cover costs.

It is always a surprise to see one's parents age. When the change is rapid it is a shock. With age you can expect the hair to get gray and white, a few wrinkles to appear, but it is not necessary to lose your muscles or to gain fat. That is not aging, but a result of living habits, mostly unhealthy ones.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Saying she "is the only candidate with nothing to hide," Elizabeth Keethly, the Peace and Freedom Party candidate for governor, walked nude down the beach Tuesday.

Miss Keethly campaigned among the nude sunbathers there, who are faced by a city council edict, expected to take effect later this week, ordering arrests for nudity.

"I feel that nudity is a matter of personal preference and that individuals don't have the right to impose their values on other individuals," she said, passing out handbills.

"There is nothing aggressive about this behavior as opposed to many other politicians, who presume to run other people's lives for them."

Fees raised at state college, universities

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Full-time students in the state university and colleges system will pay $18 more per semester in fees and professors will earn 8.4 per cent more in wages and fringe benefits.

The state university and colleges trustees at their recent meeting boosted the fees from $118 to $136 beginning in September.

College professors received an across-the-board wage increase of 4.8 per cent retroactive to July 1 and 3.6 per cent fringe benefits hike.

State foster care labeled 'mish mash'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Health and Welfare Agency's foster care program is plagued by a "mish-mash" of organization resulting in inadequate care for some children, a legislative report charged today.

Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, chairman of the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, said there were 14 separate organizational units in the agency for foster children making "it impossible for efficient supervision."

The Auditor General's study, the third on foster care in California, involved 5,960 young persons under 18 assigned to out-of-home care supervised by county probation departments, Thomas said.

It also included 7,360 children diagnosed as mentally ill or retarded and living in out-of-home facilities.

"These youngsters make up 23 per cent of the foster care children in the state, and the 14 programs cost about $142 million a year out of the $267 million in state, local and federal funds spent on foster care programs in California annually," the assemblyman said.

The report said that because of "fragmented organization," a high percentage of children diagnosed as mentally ill are placed on county probation rolls instead of being placed in mental health facilities.

The report said that in four of the counties the auditors visited, "youngsters remained under the supervision and care of probation departments because there were no facilities available for mentally ill delinquents."

Thomas said the report was not pointing the finger at these counties but "these are specific examples of the conclusion of the report: that the Health and Welfare Agency must coordinate all its programs."

The report also said that the "diffusion of authority ... prevents the assignment of responsibility for either program failure or success at the state level."

It recommended that the agency "organize its 14 existing child placement, foster home licensing, foster care financing and health treatment units into a single children's services unit."

Another recommendation was that the legislature require coordination between county probation departments and state and local agencies "so that mentally ill children would not be confined to county juvenile detention facilities."

Someone goofs on women's lib

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The California Assembly Committee on Revenue and Taxation had an eye on women's liberation when it sent some material to a UPI woman staffer. But somewhere along the line, someone goofed.

The envelope was address "Ms." The salutation on the letter was "Gentlemen."

What Makes Children Tell Lies?

"All kids tell lies. Not just some, all. And when they do, parents usually react in the same way. They get angry."

What parent has not worried about his child's honesty? Is little Tommy turning into a liar? Is little Janey not to be trusted at all? Is my child becoming a criminal? Is there something the matter with me? This week FAMILY WEEKLY examines the subject of children's lies. You'll learn how and why children lie. You'll also learn the motives behind all those untruthful and sometimes tall tales. You'll discover a family counselor's five guidelines for dealing with the problem.

Some laws for vacations

By ERMA BOMBECK

Many parents have written to me about the horrors of the family vacation. Some of the letters are so vehement in their criticism and sadistic in their solutions, I feel I should outline some of the laws throughout the country regarding the vacationing family.

The Abandon-Child Law: It is illegal in 47 states to leave a child in a restroom and pretend it was a mistake. Maryland and Utah are sympathetic to parents if they can produce a doctor's certificate showing mental deterioration caused by the trip. Alaska (which is quite permissive) allows a mild sedation for the children.

The New Jersey vs. Kidder Law: It is illegal on the New Jersey turnpike for a child to hang out of the car window and make a noise like a siren. A decision on this was handed down in 1953, after 45 cars (including three police cruisers) pulled over to the side of the road and tied up traffic for 52 hours.

The Key Decision: All 50 states have rulings regarding children who collect restroom keys as souvenirs. One of the stiffer penalties is feeding a child a quart of Gatorade and putting him outside a locked door until a key shows up.

The No-Fault Litter Law: Vehicles bearing families are not permitted to stop in the downtown area of cities having populations of 450,000 or more to look for a gym shoe that somene threw out of the moving vehicle. It is suggested that mothers put name tapes and full addresses on both shoes.

Anti-noise laws: Nearly every city (including three ghost towns in Arizona) has the noise pollutant law. If, in fact, your vacationers have two radios playing at full volume, a barking dog and a father screaming, "Would anyone believe we didn't HAVE to get married?" and can be heard with all the car windows up, everyone in the car can be arrested.

Safe Driving Law: It is unlawful to inflate a 20-foot life raft in a sedan blocking Daddy's view of the road, braid his hair while he is driving in the mountains, or tie his shoes together when he is going through a tunnel.

New FCS (Food and Comfort Service) has issued a motion soon to be voted upon by local legislatures that drivers must stop a minimum of every twelve hours for food and comfort. Failure to do this gives the occupants of the car the right to declare mutiny and replace the driver at the next service exit.

Now, everyone have a good time this year . . . even if you have to break some heads to do it.

Tortoise can exist on flower blossoms

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Caboose, my tortoise, hasn't eaten a thing this year except flower blossoms. I've tried him on lettuce, cherries and cantaloups. They're supposed to eat these things, I understand, but not Caboose. It's flowers or forget it. How long can he keep going on such a diet? —T.N.

Dear T.N.: For years, probably, though keep coaxing him with other fruits and greenery, particularly when he's hungry. While Caboose obviously won't be rushed into a rash of new rations, persisitently plying him with a variety may pay off eventually. Giving him small amounts of other foods could greatly improve his nutritional blance.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I've been assured that my six-month-old cat, Flea, couldn't possibly be pregnant, but she's getting bigger everyday — in the middle, that is. It's been suggested to me she may be bloated but I haven't taken her in to the doctor because she seems perfectly well and happy. What would cause bloating in a young female cat? —B.B.

Dear B.B: Bloating in any cat would most frequently be an indication of indigestion—from wrong of spoiled food, from foreign material or parasites, or from some basically internal cause. However, "bloating" in a young female cat (particularly one who may not be quite as young as you think she is) may frequently be the result of amorous activities, and not, of course, bloat at all.

One should also always consider a tumor as a possibility, though in any young, apparently healthy, cat this would probably be even less probable than the bloating theory. I'm sure you know by this time which hypothesis was correct. My guess would be that an ovarial hysterectomy would and should prevent similar episodes in the future.

Much mirth about birth

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

One of the things that differentiates man from beast besides his soul, thumbs and income tax, is his ability to count (and discount) his birthdays.

Caesar used to celebrate his birthday by killing several hundred slaves, an excess unequalled until modern times when we lose several hundred motorists on the freeways on Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays.

For most of us the first birthday is the most rigorous. The house is filled with doing grandparents, drinking uncles, and cousins who prod us with boney fingers and say we have our mother's ears. Fortunately we are able to sleep our way through most of it, and destroying the birthday presents—dolls, plastic ducks, toy trucks —is child's play.

From then one we count our birthdays because we are GREEDY. We get toys and cake and money. Uncle Bill buys us an air fifle, and Dad takes us to Disneyland. And Grandma keeps knitting soakers! Will someone please tell her that an 18-year-old boy no longer needs soakers?

Birthdays are important. Age is privilege. At 16 we can drive the family car (and pile it up). At 18 we graduate from juvenile hall to adult courts. At 21 we can buy a drink without borrowing an I.D. card.

A girl becomes a woman when she stops counting on her fingers and starts counting on her legs.

At 21, with his young manhood before him, the male of the species goes proudly forward, counting the years like notches on his gun, but the female suddenly comes all over demure. The specter of ancient 30 looms before her. The end of the road.

Middle-aged men are as touchy as women about their age. Watch them pull in their tums and smooth down their few remaining hairs when talk of birthdays comes up. Watch them bristle at remarks about "aging Hank Aaron" and "ancient Sam Snead."

After 60 the attitude changes. Youth has fled. Even the cops are younger than you. College students look like elementary school pupils, and retirement is only five years away.

And still the birthdays come. You have one practically every year. Pretty soon they are calling you "the veteran grocery clerk" or "the dean of the valley shoe salesmen."

At 65 you retire with handclaps, dry cake, dry speeches and the inevitable watch, a classic irony. When you no longer need it, management gives you an expensive watch.

When you reach 100, the newspapers come around to photograph you with your teeth in and ask to what you attribute your longevity, which they misspell.

So to everyone who has a birthday today: Happy birthday, you!

West blind to bid, play

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There are none so blind as they who will not see. Today's West appears to have been outstanding in that respect.

His blindness started with the bidding. He didn't have even one jack in his hand, but he wasn't vulnerable and he did hold 11 cards in two suits and a void in spades.

Probably he should have bid right away over South's four-spade bid. Certainly he should have acted after East doubled four spades. a four-notrump call at that spot would clearly have asked East to bid suit. It could not be Blackwood. East would have obliged with five diamonds and made either five. or six depending on the oepning lead.

Anyway, West passed and opened a club. East won and promptly led the nine of diamonds.

At this point West's blindness really showed up. He did not see that East had made a very unusual play and that he had a chance to win the trick with his 10 spot and lead a club to give East a ruff and set the contract. He just let East hold the trick.

After this there was no defense. South lost a trick to the ace of trumps, but that was all.

John Lindsay on TV show

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Mayor John V. Lindsay will become a regular guest commentator on ABC-TV's new early morning series "AM America," it was announced Tuesday.

ABC-TV President Martin Starger said "As a world-famous figure, outstanding Congressman, and former mayor of New York City, he will bring to early morning viewers his expertise in government and politics, his intimate relationship with and knowledge of national leaders, and his great interest in the arts."

The new two-hour show, which will compete with NBC's "Today" show and the "CBS Morning News," debuts Jan. 6 at 7 a.m.

For Friday, July 19

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's to your advantage to press for a close on issues that are of importance to you at this time. Then you can move on to new projects.

TAURUS (Apr 20-May 20) Today will offer some surprises. They'll cause you to alter your course a bit. The change will later prove to be favorable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An unusual set of conditions will develop that will enable you to wipe out an old obligation over the coming month.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) An interesting challenge is in store for you. It will take you off in a new direction. Give it your best—it'll be worth it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Discard without looking back encumbrances that you've learned from experience benefit neither you nor those you've tried to help.

VIRGO (aug. 23-Sept. 22) Over the next few weeks you'll be giving lots of your time to an interest you've felt was beyond your reach until now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're entering a favorable achievement cycle. Before it ends, a goal that is important to you will be attained.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something will occur that will change your outlook considerably. The new perspective will allow you to see a broader picture.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This is a good time to check up on those who owe you old obligations. Let them know you'd like them cleared up now.

Gratitude for heir

Grateful for the birth of a son and heir, Emperor Napoleon presented his wife, Marie Louise, with a silver tiara set containing 950 diamonds weighing 700 carats and adorned with 79 emeralds. The tiara with turquoise replacing the emeralds, is now a part of the gem collection at the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C.

Wallace ticket would lose Demos black vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democrats would lose traditional support from blacks if their 1976 ticket includes Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, in the opinion of a veteran civil rights lobbyist.

"I can't see a situation developing in this country where blacks would support a presidential ticket that included Gov. Wallace," said Clarence Mitchell, Washington director for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

"I'm very certain that if the Democrats want to hand the election to the Republicans, all they've got to do is put Wallace on the ticket as vice presidential candidate and you can be sure that if the blacks could put a Republican administration in, that is what would happen."

Mitchell, the NAACP's chief legislative strategist, had a strong role in shaping most civil rights legislation. He said in an interview Sunday that he could understand the motives of the black politicians who have supported Wallace recently.

"Gov. Wallace was at one time a person who was supposed to be a kind of moderate," he said. "I met him at a Democratic national convention and at that time he wasn't governor.

"He was sitting next to Congressman William Dawson, a black congressman, and both of them got along very well together.

"As I understand it, Wallace decided to capitalize on the segregation theme in order to rise to where he is.

"A great many blacks, of course, know that not only Wallace but many others are not serious believers in discrimination and racism — they're doing it for political purposes.

"So I can only assume that those who see him in a different light now, are looking at the old Wallace before he became a great spokesman for segregation, plus the practical political realities of the South."

NEWS IN BRIEF

OEP director fired by Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has fired the head of the Office of Economic Opportunity for trying to save some of the programs the President wants abolished.

OEO director Alvin J. Arnett said Nixon adviser Dean Burch called him Monday afternoon and "requested my resignation to become official at 10 a.m. Tuesday. His line was that the President does not want OEO and that I have been accused of lobbying to continue the agency."

Cycle track is defendant

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Indian Dunes Motorcycle track in Valencia was named as defendant in a $500,000 damage suit filed Tuesday by a 17-year-old girl motorcyclist from Glendale.

Donna Horn alleged in the Superior Court suit the track, due to negligence, was responsible for injuries she suffered last July 22 when she ran into an unmarked barbed wire fence.

Safeway won't hike on-the-shelf prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Safeway, with the largest sales volume of any supermarket chain in the nation, promised today not to put higher prices on stocks already on the shelf when prices go up for new stocks.

It said its nearly 2,000 stores henceforth will sell all existing stocks on the shelf at the old price.

The company said it was announcing the new policy in response to complaints from customers who found two or more price stickers on a product, showing the price of goods already on hand was sometimes raised when the price of new stocks increased.

GOP party innocent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate committee finding that the Republican party organization had nothing to do with the Watergate scandal was welcome news to GOP Chairman George Bush.

"I have been trying to make that point ever since I took this job," Bush said in a statement.

"I hope the issuance of this report that clears both the Republican and Democratic national committees of any involvement in excesses in several campaigns will help restore the faith of the American people in our two parties —and in our system," Bush said.

Anthrax disease, a cattle-killer, hits Southwest

MARLIN, Tex. (UPI) — An outbreak of anthrax which killed more than 100 cattle in East Texas may have already spread into Oklahoma. National guardsmen and animal inspectors today manned quarantine roadblocks in Texas, and Oklahoma Gov. David Hall ordered a halt to the movment of all cattle in his state.

Officials said eight to 10 cows died Tuesday at the Oklahoma City stockyards, and most of them were confirmed as victims of the contageous disease.

Anthrax can infect humans who come in contact with diseased animals or eat contaminate meat. Penicillin is an effective treatment for anthrax in humans, but the disease is almost always fatal to animals.

In Texas, a spokesman in Falls County said 175 cows died of the disease and were destroyed. Cows that die of anthrax must be cremated within 24 hours. Ranchers dug pits, poured coal oil on the carcases of dead cattle and burned them in an attempt to stop the spread of the disease.

"It could wipe out the whole country if it's not checked," a veterinarian in Falls County said. "We can check it if we have an effective quarantine. Most everybody is scared, but we don't need stupid things like hauling cattle to sale."

A vaccine is available to control anthrax, but it is scarce, and Falls County extension agent Gilbert Woods said Tuesday the present crisis could drain all supplies of the vaccine.

Rock, roll wedding

OJAI, Calif. (UPI) — The guest list at the wedding of pop composer Jimmy Webb to Birgitta "Patsy" Sullivan — daughter of actor Barry Sullivan —read like a "who's who" of the world of rock and pop music.

The guests included John Lennon, Alice Cooper, Harry Nillson, Joni Mitchell, Johnny Rivers, Art Garfunkel, Glen Campbell, Herb Alpert, actor Richard Harris and recording executive David Gelfen.

The ceremony was performed Sunday on the 27-acre ranch of singer Jim Messina, of Loggins and Messina, by the Rev. Robert Webb, the groom's father and Baptist minister, to a wedding song written and sung by Webb's close friend, Roger Miller.

Girl, 10, treated for diphtheria

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A 10-year-old girl, who had complained about a sore throat for about a week, was treated for diphtheria Tuesday in the communicable diseases ward at County-USC Medical Center.

Dr. Ralph R. Sachs, deputy director of county health services, said the girl had not been properly immunized. This was the third case of diphtheria discovered in the county this year, none of which has resulted in death.

Archie out of it

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The "meathead" and the "dingbat" carried the load on the first episode this season of the "All in the Family" television series. Archie Bunker's chair was empty.

Carroll O'Connor, who plays the irrascible middlebrow, is involved in a dispute with the series producers, Tandem Productions, which he charges owes him $64,000 in back wages. Tandem said the first episode of the fall season was taped Tuesday night.

O'Connor wasn't there, so a script was used in which he does not appear. Other such scripts are ready, said the show's creator, executive producer Norman Lear, indicating that if O'Connor does not return to the family within three weeks, he will be permanently written out of the show.

Army phone unlisted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A telephone number once widely advertised for potential Army recruits to call 24 hours a day is now unlisted.

A reporter who called a long distance operator Sunday to ask for the toll-free Defense Department number was told: "I'm sorry, sir. That number is unlisted at the request of the customer."

A Pentagon duty officer told the reporter, "I've got a lot of numbers here, but I don't have one for recruiting."

Whites fill jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Virtually all desirable positions in the bureaucracy which handles Supreme Court matters have been filled by whites, while blacks have been hired mainly in low-level posts, according to New Times magazine.

In a forthcoming issue, the magazine charges that the court, despite its rulings in favor of racial equality, has maintained personnel policies which favor whites for the best jobs.

'College of the Air' --a moving school

PLANO, Texas (UPI) — The University of Plano, an innovator in education since its founding a decade ago, had its first "College of the Air" last year, sending students to Asian countries, and believes it was such a success that the 1974-75 "college of the air" will visit both Asia and Latin America.

"A college while traveling abroad is one of the best ways to equip students to serve in and to influence the world of tomorrow," said Dr. Robert Morris, president of the university, which also has its usual classes at Plano.

The 23 students, accompanied by three professors, visited nine Asian areas —Taipei, Quemoy, Hong Kong, Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore, Java, Bali, and Japan —visiting universities where possible and using the university libraries and hearing lectures from professors.

"In each country they studied the political structure, history, philosophy, culture, and economics of that country," said Dr. Morris. "When classroom atmosphere bristles with interest, learning comes easily, and those students now have learned in the concrete. Their understanding of Oriental ways is clear and definitive.

"Experiences bring home the reality, and it is difficult to learn some things from books."

Because Plano considered the first college of the air such a success, the university plans concurrent Asian and Latin American "classes" during the coming school year. The Asian college will leave Los Angeles Sept. 18 and visit Guam, Taipei, Hong Kong, Malaysia, Singapore, Bali-Lombok, Sydney, Canberra, Fiji, Maui and then return to the U.S. in mid-December.

The Latin American group leaves Sept. 16 for Brazil, Montivideo, Buenos Aires, Chile, Peru, Colombia, Panama, Nicaragua and Mexico.

Courses to be studied include anthropoloy, geopolitics, Spanish or Chinese language, and sociology.

"I have done so much world traveling in the last 20 years, and found it so educational in this quickly changing world that I thought it would be important to establish a sort of traveling university," said Dr. Morris, who was a candidate for nomination as U.S. Senator in recent Texas primaries. "I believe that old chinese saying that 10,000 miles are worth 10,000 books, and that's the motto for our new college of the air. The students who were in our first college of the air say they believe it now too."

Said one of the students, John Hemenway, in a letter to Morris: "... tourism with a purpose is hard work, but the reward is immediate in enriching experience ..."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Will Rogers, one of America's most beloved humorists, was the only comedian commemorated on an American postage stamp and is the only entertainer to have an honorary statue in the U.S. Capitol, The World Almanac notes. The day of his funeral, every movie theater in America darkened its screen for five minutes and the two national radio networks observed a half hour of silence in his memory.

Kennecott files suit against EPA

MCGILL, Nev. (UPI) — Kennecott Copper Corp. filed a citzen's suit today against the Federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), alleging the agency had failed to adhere to the Clean Air Act of 1970.

The act requires the EPA to approve clean air implementation plans submitted by states or to issue substitute regulations within six months after disapproval. The EPA disapproved the Nevada State plan relating to Kennecott's copper smelter here in May, 1972.

W.H. Winn, general manager of the company's Nevada McNes division, said company representatives had met frequently with EPA officials following the rejection in an attempt to work out a solution.

"Nothing was done. We are very disappointed with this latest delay in implementing a clean-air plan for Nevada," he said.

The company filed its suit in U.S. District Court. It advised the EPA in May it would take legal action if it failed to act on the Nevada plan.

Kennecott has embarked on a $24 million construction program at the smelter. Winn said he was confident it would enable it to meet the provisions of the clean air act and the even stricter Nevada regulations. However, he said, the company has only until the middle of 1976 to complete the work, which includes construction of a complex acid plant to treat sulfur oxide gases.

"Because we are rapidly running out of time, we must find some way to compel the EPA to set the ground rules for compliance.

In June, Kennecott received a one-year extension from the EPA of a requirement that Jennecott meet federal air quality standards bz mid-1975. This was granted by an administrative law judge after a public hearing in Ely.

Campgrounds to charge fees

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Sacramento district of the U.S. Corps of Engineers said today it will collect campground fees at eight of its recreation areas.

The fees are required by a new law covering facilities provided at federal expense. In addition to the Corps of Engineers, the law covers the National Park Service and Forest Service.

—North Shore Recreation Area, New Hogan Lake, on the Calaveras River east of Stockton, $2.50.

—Island Park Recreation Area, Pine Flat Lake, on the Kings River east of Fresno, $1.50.

—Tule Recreation Area, Success Lake, on the Tule River east of Porterville, $2.50.

—At Isabella Lake on the Kern River east of Bak[illegible]field, a rate of $2.50 [illegible]llected by the camp- [illegible] Tillie Creek, Live [illegible], Hungry Gulch [illegible]ulch.

Sun outshines Hawaiians at Big A

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — It was anything but boring.

WFL football made its local debut Thursday night at Anaheim Stadium before 32,088 sweltering fans on a steamy night.

The Southern Californa Sun shone brightly for three quarters Wednesday night then nearly sank under a wave of Hawaiian touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

After building up an apparently safe lead, the Sun fumbles combined to produce four Hawaiian touchdowns in the final period.

After leading by as much as 30-8, the Sun limped home with a 38-31 victory, its first to even the season record at 1-1.

Coach Tim Fears was as limp as his players and the fans in the steamy 80-degree weather. But the heat Fears was suffering from had been applied by the visitors who are now 0-2.

"I'm very shaky," the Sun coach admitted. "I can't understand our gang. When we got that lead, we tried to play everybody. But they couldn't stand prosperity and hold it. We may have to play the first string the whole game next time."

What Fears was referring to was the fourth-quarter touchdown drives by the Hawaiians. They went 49 yards in nine plays.

"We played great for three quarters," Fears said. "But as far as I'm concerned, the game was a mockery at the end. They couldn't run through us, but they sure passed over us."

Norris Weese, the Hawaiians' starting quarterback, completed only three of six passes for 14 yards in the entire FIRST HALF. He picked up the pace a little in the third period with four of five for 21 yards.

But in the fourth quarter, Weese bombarded the Sun with 15 of 21 completions for 172 yards and two touchdowns. He ran two yards to score a third TD.

Dummit, former UCLA star and a onetimee Ram, came off the bench to drive the visitors 64 yards in three plays. Dummit completed passes of 20, 12 and 32 yards before suffering bruised ribs on the scoring strike to Tim Delaney. The former Chino High and Mt. San Antonio College star.

Tony Adams, the Sun signal caller, engineered scoring drives of 66 yards in five plays and 80 yards in 10 plays to give the Sun a 15-0 halftime lead as Kermit Johnson scored on the first action play and missed on the second.

The Utah State and Charger taxi squad grad drove the Sun 67 yards in 12 plays in the third quarter which ended in a 23-0 lead. Adams ran the last 14 yards himself to score.

His first three quarter heroics were probably what earned him Offensive Player of the Game honors. Adams completed his first eight passes and nine of 10 in the first half.

He would up with 13 of 19 for 268 yards and the two touchdowns. On the ground the Sun QB carried five times and averaged 9.6 yards per carry and scored two more touchdowns and an action point to help account for 29 of the Sun's 38 points. After the visitors had scored their first touchdown of the game 1:45 into the final period, Alonzo Emery, who was Woody Green's backup at Arizona State, ran the Hawaiian kickoff back 76 yards to make it 30-8.

At that point, Fears began all out subsituting. Hawaii scored to make it 30-15. Gary Valboena took over for Adams and took the Sun 65 yards in eight plays passing to Cal State Fullerton's Terry Lindsey for the score. Ralph Nelson, who didn't play college ball, bucked over tackle for the action point and it was 38-15.

Enter Dennis Dummit and it soon was cut to 38-23. Weese returned to lead the Hawaiians to another score with just under two minutes left and it was 38-31.

Twice in the final two minutes Adams fumbled and the Hawaiians recovered.

"They were grievous errors," admitted Fears. "But our center (Ted Siefert) was injured and we had our right guard (Mike Ryan) playing center.

"I thought Tony (Adams) called a beautiful game," Fears continued. "The difference between this week and last week was that he played up to his potential this week."

Over in the Hawaii dressing room, coach Mike Giddings would not admit defeat.

"We just ran out of time we didn't lose," Griddings said.

SUN SPOTS — Adams claims the difference between WFL and NFL players is that the WFL players are smaller but faster.

Wide Receiver Dave Williams, who caught three passes for 55 yards to score the first touchdown and set up the second, agreed and said the WFL linebackers are the fastest he's seen.

Williams also praised Fears for his organizational work. "I've never been better prepared going into a game," he said. I knew their (Hawaii's) defense all evening. It was incredible."

"The Chargers were never organized," he added.

John injured

Dodgers' staff is coming apart

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Besides their recent sluggish play and seeing their once mighty lead in the National League West cut in half within a week, the Dodgers have bigger worries today.

Their pitching staff is suddenly coming apart.

Montreal took advantage of John's sudden departure to pull out a 5-4 victory to cut the Dodgers' lead over Cincinnati to 5½ games. It was up to 10½ just a week ago.

But the major concern centers on John. With relief pitcher Jim Brewer already in the hospital with a back ailment and Don Sutton struggling, the Dodgers' staff is in trouble.

Dr. Frank Jobe, the Dodgers' orthopedic specialist, examined John after he left the game and put his arm in ice. Additional examinations today will determine John's future status.

"My arm felt a little stiff in the second inning and it finally pulled in the third," John reported, "but it had nothing to do with my surgery this winter."

"Tommy said the pain was both above and below the elbow," Dodger trainer Bill Buhler said, "but not in the elbow itself."

It was obvious John was not himself Wednesday. He didn't allow a run through the first two innings but he was struggling. After Willie Davis singled and Bob Bailey drew a walk to open the third, John left the mound after throwing a high, outside pitch to Hal Breeden.

Lefthander Geoff Zahn came in from the bullpen but the Expos pounded out three hits in the rest of the inning to score three runs and went ahead in the fourth with two more in the fourth with three more hits off of Zahn.

Alston called for knuckleballer Charlie Hough after Bailey's single scored the tying run. Hough, who lost Tuesday's game when he couldn't protect a lead in the ninth inning, gave up a sacrifice fly to Mike Jorgensen but ended up hurling three perfect innings. Mike Marshall and Al Downing also kept the Expos in check.

The Dodgers have been forced to go through its bullpen in the last two games. With Brewer and John ailing, the healthy corps is down to seven.

"I am more concerned about losing Tommy than losing the game," Alston said. "We can go with nine pitchers but not seven. We've had things go wrong before and we've bounced back. The All-Star break will help." There appears to be a call coming to the farm club in Albuquerque.

The Dodgers are not looking sharp. The wild, exciting games of a month ago have turned into dull, drawn-out affairs as the batters are slumping and the fielding has been loose. L.A. committed three more errors Wednesday.

After knocking out All-Star selection Steve Roger with four runs and seven hits in the first two innings, the Dodgers were stymied the rest of the way by relief pitcher Don Carrithers, who hurled seven scoreless innings to pick up his first victory in the major leagues since he was with the Giants on May 6, 1973.

Los Angeles' best chance came in the seventh inning when Jimmy Wynn, Ron Cey and Steve Garvey singled to load the bases with two outs. Carrithers got behind 3-1 on Bill Russell but was able to strike out the Dodger shortstop to end the threat.

DODGER DATA — Andy Messersmith, who has been outstanding in his last 10 starts, will take his 10-2 record against Montreal's Ernie McAnally (6-10) in this evening's season finale with the Expos . . .

Philadelphia comes into town for Helmet Weekend Friday, Saturday and Sunday .

Stanton big hero in Angels' rally

CLEVELAND (UPI) — When Nolan Ryan was traded to the California Angels, a young outfielder named Lee Stanton came from the New York Mets in the 1971 deal and Angels fans said 'Lee Who?'

But they know who he is now as the rightfielder drove in four runs with a pair of singles Wednesday night to lead the Angels to a 7-5 come-from-behind victory over the Cleveland Indians.

It was the fifth victory in the last six games for the Angels and new manager Dick Williams after 10 straight losses.

After spotting the Indians a 5-0 lead and being held to only two hits over the first seven innings by Jim Perry, the Angels exploded for four runs in the eighth and won with a three-run ninth.

It was Stanton's two-run single that capped the eighth inning rally and his single that snapped a 5-5 tie in the ninth off loser Tom Buskey.

"I feel no extra pressure hitting in the third spot in the lineup. I just feel that I can hit the ball and as the season goes on I'm going to hit it hard every time," said Stanton, who missed 31 games early in the season with a broken wrist.

"This club has really turned around and they are getting a taste of what it's like to be a winner, something they have never had before," Williams said. "I've been a winner before. I know what it's like and the team is beginning to like it."

Pinch-hitter Luis Alvarado, taking the place of Jack Brohamer, hit a bases loaded single for a 2-0 Cleveland lead in the fourth, and in the fifth Buddy Bell hit his sixth homer with John Ellis and George Hendricks on base.

The Angels opened the eighth with consecutive doubles by Ellie Rodriguez, Denny Doyle and Bobby Valentine and Perry headed for the showers. Fred Beene pitched to Stanton, yielding a two-run single, before Buskey fanned pinch-hitter Bob Oliver to end the rally.

Buskey walked Rodriguez to open the ninth and when the dust had cleared, the Indians lost their fifth straight game and eighth in the last 10.

"Perry just ran out of gas in the eighth and Buskey created his own problems by walking the leadoff man in the ninth," said Cleveland manager Ken Aspromonte.

Oakland, which started the Indians on their current losing streak by snapping Gaylord Perry's winning streak at 15 on July 8, move into town for a four-game series starting tonight.

San Gabriel All-Star Game

Top gridders play tonight

In a few hours the 9th Annual East-West San Gabriel Valley All-Star Football Game will be underway at Citrus College.

The 8 p.m. starting affair promises to follow tradition of the SGV game with exciting, outstanding football.

Each of the 60 players selected should see plenty of action as both coaches have indicated the platoon system for the early stages of the game.

The final outcome will probably be decided by conditioning and mistakes.

Conditioning will take its toll because the quarters are 15 minutes long instead of the standard 12 minutes used in high school play.

"It's going to be a long game," said West head coach Gordon Warnock of 3-A champion Crescenta Valley. "That's a long time for high school kids (15 minute quarters). It's like playing a whole extra period."

"We don't have enough players to platoon for the whole game," continued Warnock, "so conditioning will be a key factor. But both teams are in the same boat. That along with the team that makes mistakes at the worst time are the keys."

Each team has been together for 12 practice days and for the most part have never played together, so execution could be a little ragged in the early going.

"The kids have performed as well as can be expected," said Warnock. "The conflict with the Shrine game has hurt us but yet it has helped us. Some kids, who didn't expect to be an all-star were called to play in this game and their attitude has been super."

"I'm really looking forward to the game," continued Warnock. "The kids have worked hard and it has been a long two weeks. Most of the kids as well as the coaches are holding down full-time summer jobs. So it's been tough on everyone because everybody is giving their best after working all day."

Gary Rawls of Rowland, the assistant coach to Dwayne DeSpain of the East squad, concurred that execution might not be at its best simply because the kids have only been together 12 days.

"We covered everything we wanted. They've done a pretty good job getting together as good as they can in this short of time," said Rawls. "We've got good talent and I think everybody is ready Randy (Rizo—of Chino High) has been very impressive."

Tom McCraw sold by Angels

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Outfielder-first baseman Tom McCraw was sold by the California Angels to the Cleveland Indians in Wednesday straight cash deal.

The Angels said they will call up Bruce Bochte from their Salt Lake City Club later this week to replace McCraw.

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

Two games highlight the opening day action. The playoffs will run through Sunday with all games being played at Ralph Welch, with Arcadia Post 247 opposing La Verne Post 330 at 4:30 p.m. today.

Covina Post 207 and Pomona Post 30 will square off approximately 45 minutes after the conclusion of the first game.

Arcadia captured the Eastern Division title with a 9-2 slate (20-4 overall) while La Verne (21-15 overall) at 7-4 was second in the West.

Arcadia has a hitting team that is feared. Dave Hostetler, Frank Costantino, Bill Boden and Brad Ducich have given valley pitchers a tough time all summer.

Post 247's pitching is firm in righthander Kym Matz and southpaw Ken Passemoto but beyond that the staff is weak.

La Verne will start Ralph Beltran (7-1, 2.13 ERA), opposed probably by Passemoto, on the mound with Rich Ortega, Jerry Levereau and Marty Schroedter patrolling the outfield.

Ortega boasts a .380 average with 15 steals, four homers and leads the team in hits with 64.

"We'll have to stop Arcadia's hitting," said Drake. "I think they have the best in the playoffs. But I don't think they have the pitching to stop us. They have experience as Arcadia High went a long way this year in the 4-A playoffs while our kids competed against 2-A opponents. They can't take us lightly though."

Larry Pekarcik, 11-1 on the season with a 1.11 earned run average, will take to the hill for Pomona against Covina Post 207. He'll be opposed by either Dave Garnier or Dave Melton.

Post 30 will start Dave Pedroza at first, Billy Karr at second, Will Lewallen at short and Dean Sickels at third. Roger Slayton will be in right, Gerrard Piccioni in center and Jon Freeman in left. Tracey Cowger will handle Pekarcik behind the plate.

Slayton paced the Gems in hitting with a .402 mark, including 29 RBI's and 13 doubles. Cowger hit .395 with 18 ribbies and two homers. Lewallen batted .378 with 17 RBI's, six doubles, three triples and two home runs. He led the teams in runs scored with 21 and hits with 42. Sickels hit at a .351 clip with 16 RBI's and 21 walks while Pekaroik batted .276 with two roundtrippers and 18 runs batted in.

Each team won by a 9-7 score with Pekarcik and Melton splitting decisions against each other in the teams' meetings this summer.

"They're solid all the way around," said the veteran skipper. "They're hungry, well-coached and have balanced pitching."

Hansen feels that if they can make the routine play and don't walk a lot of batters that Pomona's pitching staff of Pekarcik, Paul Madrigal (5-3, 3.50 ERA), Vince Garcia (4-0, 3.05) and Rubin Ruiz (5-3, 3.14) will suffice.

Dizzy Dean to be buried in South

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Dizzy Dean's final resting place will be in the South he loved so well.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning in Wiggins, Miss., for Dean, the son of an itinerant cotton-picker who pitched his way into baseball's Hall of Fame. Burial will follow.

Dean, Carl Hubbell and Lefty Grove are ranked by baseball historians as the great pitchers of the 1930s, but Dean perhaps loomed largest in the hearts of fans because his blazing fastball was accompanied by a wit, cockiness, down-home twang and special off field warmth.

He represented baseball probably better than almost any of his peers once he was through as a player. He spoke at countless dinners and banquets all over the nation and constantly hammered the theme that baseball was the greatest game of all and that every parent should encourage his son to play it.

He carried his love of the game into the broadcast booth after a sore arm cut short his career in 1941. Names and figures were not his specialty, but he soon carved out a unique place with his enthusiasm, fractured English and folksy sayings.

Some teachers demanded he be removed from the nation's airwaves for teaching young listeners bad English, but he replied "I'm learnin' 'em good baseball."

Dean's first name was Jay although he often said it was Jerome. He was born in Lucas, Ark., Holdenville, Okla., or Bond, Miss., and was 64, or maybe 63, when he died.

He joined organized baseball with St. Joseph of the Western League in the heart of the Depression in 1930.

The hard-throwing 200-pound righthander was 18-15 as a St. Louis Cardinal rookie in 1932 and led the National League in strikeouts with 191. He was 20-18 in 1933 with 199 strikouts and had one of baseball's all-time stellar seasons in leading the 1934 Gas-House Gang Cardinals to the World Championship.

After boasting he and his brother Paul would win 50 games, Dean was 30-7 and Paul added 19 more. They then went over the 50 total as each won two games in a seven-game World Series defeat of favored Detroit.

He was 28-12 in 1935 and 24-13, but his career turned in 1937 when he was struck on the right toe by a line drive off the bat of Earl Averill in the All-Star game. He suffered a broken toe but was back pitching in a couple of weeks.

Unconsciously, he adjusted his throwing motion to compensate for the sore toe and developed a sore arm. Branch Rickey, one of the shrewdest traders in the game, sold Dean to Chicago for three players and the then fantastic sum of $185,000.

Dean's fastball was gone and he won only 18 games over the next three years before turning to broadcasting.

In recent years, he had confined himself to guest spots and playing golf in celebrity tournaments but the ready wit never left him.

"Going anywhere with him was like going with a brass band," Cub President Phil Wrigley said Wednesday.

Wrigley said he was never mad at the deal Rickey pulled on him. "I really enjoyed Dean's company. There were no regrets having him around—none."

Super Bowl rematch

KICKOFF TONIGHT — East queen Jaye Schulte of Claremont is passing the ball in anticipation of tonight's San Gabriel Valley All-Star Football Game at Citrus College. Players are Claremont's Joe Hillstock (32), Chino's Randy Rizo (78) and Pomona's Steve Taylor (97). West queen Rossana Velverde of Pasadena is helping out. Kickoff is at 8 p.m.

Conditioning a major factor for All-Star football classic

Like Warnock, Rawls also agreed that conditioning will play a big part in the game.

"We run them more than I thought," continued the Rowland High skipper, "I know 15 minute quarters doesn't sound like much more than 12—but it is."

I'm anxious to see what it's going to be like," concluded Rawls. "It's been a pleasure working with the kids. They're a quiet bunch of guys—not much rah, rah—but they seem to get along pretty well and I think they're mentally disciplined and ready for the game."

The East will start on offense, guards Kevin Swanberg (Covina) and John Harris (Glendora); tackles Steve Gearty (Damien) and Walt Kaufman (Chaffey) and center Tom Chambers of Rowland.

The flanker will be Gary Schwalbe of Rowland while the split end is La Puente's Jim Childs. Kirk Tanner of Los Altos is the tight end.

The running backs will be Kula Kuresa of Alta Loma and Mike Hill of Los Altos but with a rotating backfield, Joe Hillstock (Claremont) and Nick Howard (Charter Oak) will see a lot of playing time.

It has not as yet been determined who will start at quarterback. Pomona's Steve Taylor, Alta Loma's Jamie Broecker and Royal Oak's Clyde Christensen are all vying for the starting assignment.

"Each has had their good days and all have shown good leadership ability," said Rawls.

The defense stacks up with Bruce Abraham (Claremont) and Ron White (Royal Oak) at the ends, Alvin Holder (Baldwin Park) and Rizo (Chino) at the tackles, Dale Redman (South Hills), Hillstock, and John Balazs of Northview at the linebacker posts. The cornerbacks are Tom Pederson of Glendora and Mike Nieman of Chino while the safeties will be West Covina's Ron Roenicke and Tim Halverson.

Sponsored by the Glendora Rotary Club, proceeds from the game will be used for various charities.

Ram veterans won't picket camp

FULLERTON, Calif. (UPI) — A group of Los Angeles Rams' veterans voted Wednesday night not to picket today's opening of training camp for rookies and free agents.

Player representative Tom Mack said team veterans have decided to observe the Players' Association strike by staying away from training camp. Mack said no picket lines would go up unless some veterans decide to go to camp before the strike is settled.

"We feel we'll have more access to the rookie if we're not picketing," Mack said. "We feel that if we should picket, the media would focus on he drama of our picketing instead of on the problems with management, the problems that led to the strike."

Ram veterans are not scheduled to arrive in camp until Sunday night. The first full drill for all 115 players under contract — 44 veterans and 71 rookies—is scheduled for Monday at Cal State Fullerton.

A Ram spokesman said 64 of the rookies and free agents, including Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti of Penn State, the Rams' No. 1 pick, arrived Wednesday. The rookies heard talks from owner Carroll Rosenbloom and head coach Chuck Knox Wednesday night. Double sessions were scheduled for today.

Ram veterans had voted Tuesday not to picket, after which Mack said, "I think we are in a unique situation. We probably operate in the best environment in football. Things like the training camp situation and fines are pretty good in our case.

"On other clubs things are really sticky. You have to express what you think as a blanket feeling and this is our only way of expressing that we have problems in the NFL."

Berth on All-Stars caps Hiller comeback

NEW YORK (UPI) — Detroit Tiger ace relief hurler John Hiller capped a comeback from a heart attack today by gaining a berth on the American League pitching roster for the July 23 All-Star game in Pittsburgh.

Hiller turned in an 11-7 record in his first 18 decisions this year that has kept Detroit in contention in the American League East race.

California Angeles manager Dick Williams' eight-man squad also includes Gaylord Perry of Cleveland, who won 15 straight games this year and was within one winning decision of tying a league record for consecutive victories.

The World Champion Oakland A's have a starter and reliever on the squad after Williams selected Jim Hunter and bullpen ace Rollie Fingers.

Hawaii deals Strings 10th straight loss

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Hawaii Leis won two of the three doubles matches Wednesday night to deal the Los Angeles Strings their 10th straight defeat, 27-25, in World Team Tennis.

The Leis led 21-18 entering the mixed doubles. But Los Angeles tied the score before Dennis Ralston and Valerie Ziegenfuss managed to gain Hawaii enough points to clinch the match despite losing the set, 7-6, to the Strings' Geoff Masters and Karen Susman.

Ralston earlier paired with Ross Case to defeat the Strings' Pat Cramer and Jean Chanfreau, 6-3, after Ann Kiyomura and Miss Ziegenfuss edged Kathy Harter and Mrs. Susman of Los Angeles, 7-6.

Marita Redondo put the Strings ahead in the first set with a 6-2 victory over Brigit Cypers, but Case pulled Hawaii back within one point with a 6-3 decision over Masters before a crowd of 1,030 at the Sports Arena.

Owners reject NFL player offer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The pro football players proffered what they viewed as a negotiating olive branch. The owners reacted as if it were cactus. That was today's progress report on the National Football League strike.

Bill Curry, president of the NFL Players Association, advocated Wednesday a three-stage approach to settle the strike, entering its 18th day.

The Houston Oiler center proposed that around-the-clock bargaining talks between the players and owners start Friday. If they fail, he expressed the union's willingness to submit everything except the so-called "freedom issue" demands to binding arbitration.

Curry also suggested that a special fact-finding commission be created to weigh the "freedom issue" demands which consist of allowing a player to switch teams after his contract expires and to have some veto power over being traded to another club.

But John Thompson, chief negotiator for the owners' Management Council, contended that Curry's proposals "were a breach of a confidential agreement both sides had made with a federal mediator."

The mediator was James Scearce, who met with the two sides for seven hours Friday in an effort to get bargaining going again in the strike which started July 1.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the Players Association, said of Thompson's "breach of confidence" charge, "I don't know what he's talking about. Bill Curry's proposals were made at the initiative of the players' union."

Curry proposed a five-member commission, with one of them from the news media, to "investigate the impact of the association's proposals as to the freedom issues on the players, the owners and the game of football."

Except for 13 basic "freedom issue" demands, he said the players would be agreeable to letting other economic and non-economic issues go to arbitration if the owners would agree.

But first, he said, the players want "good faith, down-to-earth, round-the-clock negotiations."

In another move, Washington Redskin veterans decided against picketing a rookie scrimmage to be played at Robert F. Kennedy stadium Friday for the benefit of the American Boy Scouts with a $3 admission charge.

Garvey association, explained: "The Redskin members of the union decided they didn't wish to picket an intra-squad game that's being played for charity. It's kind of a truce to see if the proposals the union has made can work."

Elsewhere, six Miami Dolphins veterans crossed picket lines Wednesday and reported to training camp. Coach Don Shula said other striking veterans could jeopardize bonuses by refusing to report.

Pineda meets Nakane tonight

Pineda must beat Nakane to meet Isshimatsu Suzuki in Japan in September for the lightweight title.

Nakane is 17-0-2 with 10 knockouts. He won his last three fights by knockouts and has floored seven of his last eight opponents.

Pineda, of Mexicali, Mexico, is 24-4 with 20 knockouts. He has been installed as an 11-10 choice for the Olympic Auditorium bout.

Squires choose Jack Anderson

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Jack Ankerson, who made a winning team of the American Basketball League's San Antonio Spurs in just one season, today became the new general manager of the Virginia Squires.

San Dimas falls in tourney action

By MARK GRIP
P-B Correspondent

Glendora South Hills scored a run in the top of the 10th inning and held on to gain a 6-5 extra inning victory over San Dimas Wednesday night at Ralph Welch Park in Pomona.

South Hills, with the win, will play unbeaten Pomona American Saturday for the championship in the District 20 Senior Division Tournament. The game will start at 10 a.m. on field no. 1, and a second game will be played if American loses.

San Dimas got on the scoreboard in it's fifth with Steve Campbell picking up both RBIs after Art Amplayo, the losing pitcher, singled and Jim Button had doubled.

Salas on the mound had a no-hitter going for four innings. Salas threw 44 pitches through four, then the San Dimas hitters started hitting the first and second pitch.

South Hills was lead with the bat by Rich Hamilton, who doubled, and Ellis collected three hits in six trips to the plate.

Kelvin Bivins slamed a pair of long home runs and Gerald Wilkinson hurled a two-hitter as Pomona Northwest opened first round play in the District 20 Little League playoffs with an 8-4 victory over Ted Greene at Ted Greene Field Wednesday night.

Bivins accounted for half of Pomona's eight runs with a three-run first-inming roundtripper and a solo shot in the third. The righthanded hitting thirdman picked on the first offering from Brian Turpen on each occasion.

Wilkinson fanned eight en route to the complete-game victory but got into trouble in the third when he walked three and Wes Sheppard drove in two of the runs with a bases-loaded double. The third run scored on an error.

Ontario North moves into District 23 finals

Ontario North advanced to the championship game of the District 23 Senior Division Playoffs Wednesday night with a 9-0 win over Montclair Central at John Galvin Park.

Mario Ruiz hurled a two-hitter for Ontario North while Craig Leon and Rick Lee produced RBI triples. Lee's came with two men on base while Leon's 400-foot shot drove in one run.

Ruiz struck out nine en route to the complete-game performance allowing a second inning two-out single to losing pitcher Craig Heaps and a fifth inning safety to Doug Combs, which also came with two out.

Ontario will play for the District 23 title Saturday afternoon at John Galvin at 1:30 p.m. The opponent will not be determined until Friday.

Steve Perera big hero in Chino Hills' 12-9 win

Steve Pereda drove in five runs with a pair of home runs as Chino Hills outslugged Ontario Central 12-9 in the opening round of the District 23 Little League Baseball Playoffs at Hargis Field in Upland.

Pereda blasted a three-run homer in the first inning when Chino scored five times off losing pitcher Ricky Murillo. Pereda added a two-run blast in a wild seven run third inning off Rudy Cardenas. He also had a single in four at-bats.

Brian Downing, Chino's winning pitcher, had a 12-4 lead after three frames but escaped late inning danger when Ontario Central erupted for four runs in the sixth inning to get close. Rick Vasquez had the key blow, a three-run pinch-hit home run.

Peter Marin and Cardenas had two hits each for Ontario, while Bob Malins and Byron James had a pair of hits apiece for Chino.

15th stakes win for Laffit Pincay

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Laffit Pincay, undaunted by a $200 fine for fighting he received earlier in the day, piloted Woodland Pines to a seven-furlong win Wednesday in the $33,300 Lakes And Flowers Handicap at Hollywood Park.

Pincay and fellow jockey Wayne Harris were disciplined by track stewards for fighting after a race last weekend. Harris was fined $100.

After winning the first race, Pincay guided Woodland Pines along the outside of the pack in the back stretch and held on for a half-length win over Soft Victory. Finalista was third, inches behind Soft Victory.

"We got wiped out at the break," Pincay said. "So I just let him settle down and got him to the outside. He was giving me his best, so I never hit him."

The win was Pincay"s 15th stakes win of the season. Woodland Pines' time of 1:20 3-5 set a record for the race, bettering the mark of 1:21 1-5.

Tower East, a consistently fast sprinter, is favored in today's Hollywood Park feature, the $16,000 Carson Purse. The 5 ½-furlong dash has also attracted I'm Ed, Doc Simon, Rough Night, Melos, Hooley Ruley and Bold Kingdom.

Tower East is coming off a 1:09 1-5 win in a $30,000 event. Bill Mahorney will be in the saddle.

A stakes competitor last season, Tower East has slipped slightly this year and competes in middle grade claiming races. She has won three sprints at Hollywood this season.

Surgery helps G. Bettenhausen

ABA appears stronger

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Basketball Association rebounded from months of rumors that it would collapse, pulled three fastback maneuvers Wednesday and now appears stronger than ever with Commissioner Mike Storen stepping down to buy the Memphis franchise and Providence All-American Marvin Barnes signing an estimated $2.2-million contract with the new St. Louis team.

Tedd Munchak, owner of the Carolina Cougars for the past three years, finalized the sale of the franchise to a group of New York businessmen headed by 41-year old marketing executive Harry Weltman early in the day to clear the way for him, Munchak, to replace Storen as the ABA Commissioner.

But crucial to both moves and essential to the ABA's effort to keep pace with the National Basketball Association was the announcement that the Cougars, who will be moved to St. Louis and renamed the Spirits, had signed Barnes, a 6-foot 9 center-forward who was the second highest draft choice of the NBA behind UCLA's Bill Walton.

Barnes is a "can't miss" prospect, according to pro coaches and scouts, who combines size, strength, speed and agility. He signed with the ABA instead of the NBA Philadelphia 76ers, he said, "because of its dedication in getting the best of all college players."

Barnes, who once said in jest he'd work in a factory before he'd sign for less than a million dollars, walked into the news conference here with a lunch pail and a Spirits tee-shirt, opened the metal container and pulled out a signed contract plus a fistful of bills. He reportedly turned down a bid from the 76ers that fell short of the ABA's offer but was in excess of $1-million.

"I'm glad he signed that contract," said Mrs. Lula Barnes as she looked affectionately at her son. "I didn't want him to work in a factory either."

"It shouldn't take too long for me to adjust to the pros," Marvin said. "I've played with some guys who could make the pros right now, like David Thompson. I am a dedicated player and should have no problems making the adjustment."

Munchak, who sold All-Star guard Ted McClain, traded Mack Calvin to Denver and waived high-priced, low-output center Jim Chones out of the league soon after the past season ended in what appeared to be a series of moves that would leave the Carolina franchise a mere skeleton, may simply have been trimming his expenses in order to meet the monetary demands of Barnes.

Barnes will join Billy Cunningham and Joe Caldwell as the leading attractions in St. Louis next season as pro basketball returns there for the first time since the NBA Hawks moved to Atlanta in 1968. The Spirits will share the 20,000-seat St. Louis Auditorium with the National Hockey League St. Louis Blues.

During Storen's one-year tenure as ABA commissioner he was extremely critical of Charlie Finley, the sports magnate who previously owned the Tams.

"A good owner, with proper promotion and a good staff could make Memphis one of the most attractive and prosperous franchises in the league," Storen once said. "Finley hasn't done anything to promote the club there. The people in Memphis love basketball but it (the ABA club) was presented to them in the worst possible way."

Now Storen will have his chance.

Storen helped the ABA gain a national television contract for playoff games last season with the Hughes network and was instrumental in launching a $300-million anti-trust suit against the NBA last January that still is unresolved. Before becoming commissioner, he was general manager of the Kentucky Colonels and helped make them one of the most successful teams in the ABA.

Munchak now becomes the fifth ABA commissioner and is promising to maintain Storen's desire for expansion with a "methodical and business-like approach."

But Munchak, who fled Carolina because the crowds weren't supporting his team, now says he "couldn't run away from the responsibility" of the ABA commissioner's job.

Munchak, a white-haired 47-year-old who made his fortune in the carpet industry, will continue living in Atlanta but will work out of the ABA's New York office.

"I'm going to handle the job like a businessman," Munchak said, "and try to clean up some of the things we havent paid much attention to in the last few years. I'm going to pursue the lawsuit against the NBA and focus my attention on expenses and the operation. At the same time I'm going to make plans for the league for the next three to five years.

"I have been for some form of consolidation in the three years I have been in the ABA. I still am and if it's indicated I will pursue it."

WFL attendance declines severely

By United Press International

Judging by the latest returns, last week's encouraging World Football League attendance figures may have been only a case of "opening night" curiosity.

The fledgling football conference began Week II of its existence Wednesday night and the crowd figures, although still higher than many skeptics predicted, took a dramatic downward plunge.

In New York, where the Stars were making their debut in dilapidated Downing Stadium, 17,943—1,200 admitted freebees —showed up to watch the hometowners blow a 26-point halftime lead in losing 32-29 to the Birmingham Americans.

The Chicago Fire drew 29,508 in winning its second straight game at home, 25-22 over the Jacksonville Sharks. The turnout, however, was quite a drop from last week's estimated 42,000 showups at spacious Soldiers Field.

And in Houston, even a "nickel beer" come-on drew only 26,227 to see Texans blank Philadelphia 11-0 in the 50,000-seat Astrodome. Detroit, meanwhile, drew half its expected crowd when 10,631 showed up to see the host Wheels get edged by Florida 18-14 in the final minutas of play.

For 30 minutes, the insufficient lighting at New York's Downing Stadium, a converted soccer field, played to the Stars' advantage in their WFL hometown inaugural against Birmingham.

The enthusiastic crowd was treated to a most delightful first half as the Stars, who had lost a heartbreaker the week before, jumped out to a 29-3 halftime lead and looked about ready to pour it on their southern visitors.

But suddenly, the second half became a complete turnabout as Americans' quarterback George Mira began throwing touchdown strikes and by early in the fourth quarter, Birmingham trailed by only four points.

'It was really a matter of my receivers getting used to the poor lighting," said Mira, who fired TD strikes of 20 yards to Ted Powell and four yards to Al Jenkins before running a third score from the one.

Nevertheless, it appeared the Stars would still be able to hold onto the victory when they stopped a Birmingham drive at the Americans' 43 late in the final quarter.

Mira, however, wasn't through yet and after failing to hit his favorite target Dennis Homan on a long gainer all night, found the former Alabama star with a 63-yard TD bomb that dashed the Stars' hopes for an opening night win in front of the hometown faithful.

"I had been trying to set Homan up all night," Mira said. "Right before that pass, we had him coming back cracking the linebackers. When he was in the clear though, my only concern was whether there was a flag somewhere."

Lamented Stars' Coach Babe Parilli: "The inexperience of our secondary may have had something to do with the breakdown but overall I'd have to say we did not react as well as we should have and there was a mental letdown both offensively and defensively.

Florida 18, Detroit 14

Tom Reamon slashed over from the five with 1:37 to play to deliver Florida's victory over Detroit. Like Birmingham, it was the second straight triumph for the Blazers. Ex-New York Jet quarterback Bob Davis connected with Matt Maslowski for a six-yard scoring pass that accounted for the other Blazers' score. A disappointing crowd of 10,631.

Houston 11 Philadelphia 0

Defensive back Daryl Johnson intercepted King Corcoran's sideline pass and returned it 17 yards for one Texan score in the first period and Charlie Durkee added a 28-yard field goal in the second stanza. The alert Houston defense turned in four interceptions in never letting the bell past the Texan 30.

Chicago 25 Jacksonville 22

Virgil Carter directed an 86-yard drive in less than four minutes to set up a 26-yard field goal by Chuck Ramsey that delivered the Fire victory with six seconds remaining to play. Rookie Mark Kellar also scored twice for Chicago, taking a 31 yard pass from Carter in the first period and plunging over from the one in the fourth.

State sets catfish clinics

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Californians have expressed so much interest in catfish in the past year that Department of Fish and Game officials said Tuesday they were planning a series of catfish catching and cooking clinics.

Ralph Young, a department information officer, said an indication of the interest was the response to a department offer of a brochure on 21 ways to cook catfish.

"During the past year we received 9,950 requests for the brochure and they are still coming in at the rate of 10 a week," Young said.

The idea for catching and cooking clinics, initially planned for Southern California, came from the many questions accompanying recipe requests, he said.

"We received hundreds of inquiries on how to catch them, what bait to use, where they could be found and what tackle was necssary.

"We think evening clinics might be the best way to help the angler who is not up on catfish catching techniques," Young said.

The catfish, he added, represents "a relatively untapped resource in California."

"We are planting nearly a million channel catfish a year in California waters but the percentage of catchout is far less than in our trout program. It is surprising considering the delicious flavor of the meat and the fun in catching catfish," said Young.

A leaflet offering tips on how to catch the bewhiskered fish and the recipe brochure are still available from "Mr. Catfish," California Department of Fish and Game, 350 Golden Shore, Long Beach, Calif., 90802.

Lake Perris offers facility for boating, fishing, swimming

There is a huge amount of paved parking. The terrain into Perris is relatively flat, meaning it's easy on trailering a boat there.

The opening date for fishing in Lake Perris was July 1. The California Department of Fish and Game has planted 50,000 rainbow trout and 50,000 catfish. They reportedly have been flourishing in the Perris waters.

Perris joins Lake Castaic, Silverwood and Pyramid among Southland water terminus boating areas. They fill a great deal for fresh water boating facilities in water-hungry Southern California.

Perris also has beautiful, sandy beach, grass is in and growing and trees have been planted. There is a big swimming beach and, of course, the water is warm this time of the year. There's a special area for scuba diving.

Propose seasons for game birds

LONG BEACH — The 10-quail limit would be restored in all of Southern California and Inyo County if the Fish and Game Commission approves recommendations for the 1974-75 upland game bird seasons received when it met in Newport Beach.

The commission also heard recommendations from the Department of Fish and Game for a statewide increase in the chukar limit from four to six birds.

The upland game bird regulations, which until this year were adopted in May at the same time hunting rules for mammals were approved, will be adopted this year when the commission meets Aug. 16 in San Francisco. The change was mandated by the Legislature to enable the commission to base its decisions on the latest available information on habitat conditions and bird population levels.

The Department of Fish and Game's proposals for increasing the quail and chukar limits came after two consecutive years of increased rainfall which produced improved habitat and larger bird populations.

Other Department of Fish and Game recommendations would add a week to the fall and spring turkey seasons, expand the area open to turkey hunting and increase the bag limit in the spring season.

Eighteen counties would be added to the 23-day fall turkey season, bringing the total to 32. Bag and possession limits would remain at two brids of either sex per person.

The spring season, also running 23 days, would include all of the fall hunt area with the addition of Madera, Mariposa and Tuolumne Counties where turkeys were stocked in 1969 and 1970. The spring season limit would be increased from one bearded tom to two.

PHEASANTS— Nov. 16-Dec. 8 statewide. Bag and possession limit two birds of either sex per day for first weekend, four birds of either sex thereafter in southern counties; two males per day for first weekend, four males per day thereafter in balance of state.

ARCHERY PHEASANTS — Dec. 14-22 statewide; bag and possession limit two birds of either sex per day in Southern California; two pheasants per day Dec. 14 and 15, four pheasants per day Dec. 16-22 in balance of state. The daily bag may contain not more than one hen.

FALCONRY PHEASANTS — Dec. 14-Jan. 12, 1975; bag and possession limit one pheasant either sex per day.

QUAIL — Sept. 28-Jan. 31, 1975 in Marin, Napa, Sonoma, Solano, Lake and Mendocino counties; Oct. 26-Jan. 1, 1975 in Humboldt, Del Norte, Siskiyou, Modoc and Lassen counties; Oct. 26-Jan. 31, 1975 in balance of state. Bag and possession limit 10 per day statewide. Special additional mountain quail season Sept. 14-Oct. 25 in same counties open in 1973. Bag and possession limit 10 per day.

ARCHERY, FALCONRY QUAIL — Aug. 17-Sept. 10 in described areas. Bag and possession limits same as in gun seasons.

RED-LEGGED PATRIDGE (CHUKAR) — Oct. 26-Jan. 1, 1975 in Modoc and Lassen counties; Oct. 26-Jan. 31, 1975 in balance of state; bag and possesion limit six per day statewide.

SAGE GROUSE — Sept. 14 and 15 in Inyo, Lassen, Modoc and Mono counties. Bag and possession limit one bird per day, one bird per season.

SIERRA AND RUFFED GROUSE — Sept. 14-Oct. 13 in Alpine, Amador, Butte, Calaveras, Del Norte, El Dorado, Fresno, Humboldt, Inyo, Lassen, Madera, Mariposa, Mendocino, Modoc, Mono, Nevada, Placer, Plumas, Shasta, Sierra, Siskiyou, Tehama, Trinity, Tulare, Tuolumne, Yuba, Glenn and Lake counties. Bag and possession limit two per day.

ARCHERY, FALCONRY SIERRA AND RUFFED GROUSE — Aug. 17-Sept. 3 in same area and with same bag and possession limit as regular season.

FALL TURKEY SEASON — Nov. 2-24 in Alpine, Alameda, Amador, Butte, Calaveras, Colusa, Contra Costa, El Dorado, Fresno, Glenn, Kern, Lake, Lassen, Marin, Mendocino, Monterey, Napa, Nevada, Placer, San Benito, San Luis Obispo, San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Barbara, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Shasta, Sonoma, Tehama, Trinity, Tulare and Yuba counties. Bag and possession limit two birds, either sex, per season.

Trout plant

Fishing in Salton Sea to be improved by reef

Fishing in the vicinity of the Salton Sea State Recreation Area Marina is expected to show a continuing improvement over the next few years as result of a man-made reef just completed by biologists of the Department of Fish and Game.

Robert's Reef — the name given it by the department — is formed by 1,600 automobile tires tied into bundles of four and anchored to the bottom by concrete-filled cans.

It covers about an acre of sea bottom, approximately 300 yards south of the marina entrance and about 200 feet off shore. The location is marked by white buoys. The bottom varies in depth from 8 to 15 feet.

Robert Hulquist, department fishery biologist assigned to the Salton Sea area, said the reef should concentrate fish because of the shelter it offers small croaker and sargo.

A good sign, he said, was the presence of a two-inch growth of barnacles on the first units which were installed in April.

"This will provide a lot of food, particularly for sargo," he said, "and the corvina will hang around to grab the little fish."

Pile worms, another basic food for fish of the Salton Sea, are also expected to concentrate in the area.

Hulquist expects both shore and boat fishing to benefit from the new reef. There is a long stretch of adjacent shoreline from which to fish.

Robert's Reef was built at a cost of $3,000, half of which was provided by the Riverside Fish and Game Commission from funds accumulated by fish and game fines. The federal government provided $1,125 from Dingle-Johnson funds.

One final touch remains, Hulquist said, that is to attach black plastic streamers to the tires in order to provide additional shelter.

"It will be a lot like kelp," Hulquist said.

Both Hulquist and Pat Watkins, manager of the Salton Sea Recreation Area, report an improvement in fishing in the vicinity of the reef although hot weather for the past two or three weeks has curtailed fishing activity.

Hunter's course tonight

Anyone intending to purchase a California hunting license for the first time must attend a D.F.G.-N.R.A. hunter safety course and attain a certificate of competence.

The course consists of eight full hours of instruction consisting of two four-hour sessions each starting at 6 p.m.

The course will be conducted by Gene Hunter, NRA training counselor and DFG Region 7 coordinator.

Registration fee is $3.00 per student to cover course expenses. Applicants must attend both sessions.

Location is 9480 San Bernardino Rd., Cucamonga. For information call 987-7821.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates, Atlanta Braves, Kansas City Royals and Minnesota Twins enjoy the best home run "atmosphere" in their home parks, according to Robert Kingsley, a Washington baseball buff and stadium consultant.

The worst parks from a home run hitter's standpoint because of wind, air, altitude and humidity conditions, according to Kingsley, are San Francisco's Candlestick Park, Milwaukee's County Stadium, the California Angels' Anaheim Park and Shea in New York.

A retired Pentagon mapping expert, Kingsley has been calibrating major league home runs since 1962 as a hobby, using as his input data 22,000 homers hit over a 12-year period, precise stadium dimensions (including foul ball territory), the slugging proclivities of the teams and the atmospherics conducive to "ball carry."

Combining the physical dimensions of the 24 American and National League stadiums with the atmosphere factor, Kingsley concludes that Cleveland, Detroit, Montreal and Fenway Park in Boston offer the greatest over-all homerun potential.

Using both factors, the toughest home run parks are Yankee Stadium, Kansas City, Milwaukee and Shea, according to his calculations.

Kingsley cites the physical principle that the higher the altitude and the warmer the temperature, the thinner the air, thus less resistance to the carry of a hit baseball. He notes that the highest stadium elevations are in Atlanta, Kansas City, Minnesota and Pittsburgh; the warmest season weather in Arlington, Texas, and Atlanta.

He holds that the Atlanta Braves are favored by the thinnest air in the majors, followed by the Kansas City Royals, the Texas Rangers and Minnesota Twins while the densest air prevails in Oakland, San Francisco, Montreal and Boston.

But Kingsley also rates the wind factor into consideration and finds that Barry Park in Montreal enjoys the best home run wind assistance overall while the worst home run winds are at Arlington. He believes that "these extreme wind factors mean a difference of about 30 per cent in home runs."

He also lists a man-made atmospheric condition—air conditioning—as helpful to home run production by reducing the moisture content of the ball.

"With the advent of the new stadiums, most stadiums have provision for air conditioning in most rooms," Kingsley observes. "Storing baseballs in air conditioned rooms reduces the moisture in the ball and pretty much counterbalances the disadvantage of the more humid areas....Atlanta would have about 20 per cent less home runs if they did not use this practice."

Irish sell out five home games

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Notre Dame's home football games with five opponents have been sold out, ticket manager Jim Boufiard announced Tuesday, and only tickets for the Air Force at Notre Dame, Nov. 23, remain for public sale.

Boufiard, who earlier announced the Purdue game was sold out, Tuesday said that the Rice, Army, Miami and Pittsburgh games now were sold out.

Citrus College sets theatrical program

The fifth season of the Citrus College Summer Theater is in full swing with four plays being offered in repertory.

William Inge's Pulitzer Prize play, "Picnic," will be staged in the Little Theater at 8 o'clock tonight, Sunday, Wednesday and July 27.

"The Bald Soprano" and "The Lesson," by Eugene Ionesco, will be offered Friday, Monday and next Thursday.

Bruce Keller and Jean Sherman make up the cast of "The Lesson," and "The Bald Soprano" is played by Frances Alva, Sandra Brucks, Rod Guthrey and Robert Olson. Vicki Rolfin and Cliff Davidson star in "Rain," and Bob Ahlman and Sandra Schiele play the leads in "Picnic."

OLIVIA NEWTON —JOHN, Australian singer and recording star, will appear with the Smothers Brothers in the Greek Theater, Los Angeles, July 26 and 27. Curtain is at 8:30 p.m. Parking is free.

New theater project to open in Pomona

STP is an international, non-profit organization designed to increase audiences for theater and to give aspiring actors opportunities to perform. The local director is Frank Donadee, 622-5049.

Tryouts for an original play, "Cafe La Fortuna," will be held in the Story Theater at the Pomona Public Library at 2 p.m. Saturday.

The first play of the STP program will be the musical, "Godspell." It will be presented at the First Presbyterian Church, 401 N. Gibbs St., at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 1. Admission is free.

Actress named to L.A. post

$12 million theater death on musicals

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — The huge $12 million Uris Theater, located in a Broadway skyscraper office building, will be two years old this fall, and so far it has had no luck as a home for legitimate theater attractions, preferably musicals, which was the role it was supposed to play.

"Via Galactica," a revival of "The Desert Song" and "Gigi" died there, financial failures. Of course, these supplied the house with a few months of rent, but there was an awful lot of empty time, which is expensive time for a house of this calibre.

James M. Nederlander and Gerard Oestreicher, operators of the theater, which is owned by the Nederland Organization, do not intend to have a third season of costly idleness. They are going the concert route, with popular entertainers in for short engagements.

Nederlander tried this out this spring with a two week appearance by Sammy Davis Jr., and the record breaking engagement pointed the way to the future.

For the coming season, a wide variety of artists will appear for engagements ranging from one to two weeks.

First will be singer Andy Williams and composer Michel Legrand from Oct. 16 through the 27th. In order, the bookings include singer Johnny Mathis, the Fifth Dimension group, Enrico Macias, the Temptations, comedian Bill Cosby and singer Dionne Warwicke.

There also will be a big benefit for the Dance Theater of Harlem on Nov. 12, and a six week season by that company from next March 31 to May 11.

Nederland said that the Nederlander Organization, which has theaters in Detroit, Chicago, Washington, D.C., and Phoenix, Ariz., as well as two New York houses besides the Uris, is still devoted primarily to the legitimate theater. He regards the concert activity as corporate diversity.

Nor does the concert schedule at the Uris preclude legit attractions there during the coming season, he added. He would like to book some large mucical that, for one reason or another, might need a nice home for only a month or two. That last is not too likely. Big expensive musicals just don't flit around except in rare and extraordinary cases.

Nederlander's move to concerts is not hard to understand when you realize what has been happening in the New York entertainment field in recent years. The rock, folk and other popular musical entertainers, mainly singers, are established attractions. Madison Square Garden's two arenas, Carnegie Hall and a couple of other spots have only to announce that a certain entertainer or musical group is going to appear for a few performances, and the tickets are all taken the day they go on sale.

So, the Uris will be busy and the rent will be paid this coming season as it marks time against the day when that first big smash hit musical sneaks in for a long run and justifies the reason for its creation.

Peter Ustinov, Britain's all-everything in the theater, has a new play scheduled for New York on Dec. 3. He wrote "Who's Who in Hell" and will star in it for producers Alexander H. Coten and Bernard Delfont. A U.S. president, a Russian premier and the American youth who assassinated both have a confrontation in the hereafter.

Mexican rodeo set at Arena

The National Mexican Festival & Rodeo will be held in the Los Angeles Sports Arena for three matinee and two evening performances July 26-28.

Impresario Tony Aguilar, Mexico's movie and recording star and top performing artist in the show wears authentic and expensive Mexican costumes as do his wife, Flor Silvestre, the singing star of numerous Mexican films, and his two sons, teenaged Tonito, and little Pepito.

Fine-tooled leather saddles, bridles and stirrups, huge silver-studded sombreros, and riding boots of the finest leather are just a few of the "props."

2 artists to perform at Redlands

Pianist Steve Prutsman, a high school freshman, and harpist Pamela Cohick Rants, a recent graduate of the University of Redlands, will perform in the Redlands Bowl at 8:15 p.m. Friday. Admission is by free will offering.

Prutsman, a student of Robert Harvey, has performed with the San Diego County Symphony and at the La Jolla Music Center and the California Music Camp, and in the Fallbrook Community Concert Series.

Mrs. Rants, a 1973 winner of the Young Artists' Auditions, is harpist with the Riverside Symphony, and harp instructor at Cal Baptist College in Riverside. She has appeared with many symphonies in Southern California, including University of Redlands concerts with the Concert Band and Chamber Orchestra. She participated in recording an original composition by Alexandra Pierce, written for flute, oboe and harp and used as the sound track for an art film called "The Chambered Nautilus." She is a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, Pi Kappa Lambda and Mortar Board, and was named in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges for 1973-74." Her program will range from Bach-Grandjany to Salzeda.

Four concerts scheduled at Pomona College

The Claremont Music Festival will offer concerts in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 8:15 p.m. Friday and Wednesday and at 4 p.m. Sunday.

Members of the Institute will present a free concert of chamber music in Thatcher Music Building at 8:15 p.m. Monday.

On Friday music director Giora Bernstein will conduct the Festival Orchestra in Mozart's "Linz" Symphony, Bach's Cantata No. 60 ("O Ewigkeit, du Donnerwort"), and Berg's Violin Concerto, which incorporates the chorale from this Bach cantata into its musical structure. Charles Libove, returning for his fourth season at the Claremont Music Festival, will be the violin soloist. Soloists in the Bach cantata will be Claudine Carlson, mezzo-soprano; Michael Sells, tenor, and Paul Hinshaw, bass.

Guest conductor John Gosling, arthistic director of the North Carolina Symphony, will conduct music by Vivaldi, Debussy Brahms, and Stravinsky Sunday afternoon. Violinist Kenneth Goldsmith, concertmaster of the Festival Orchestra, will be the solist in "La Primavera" from Vivaldi's "The Four Seasons", while Frances Woodhams, solo harpist with the St. Louis Symphony, will be featured in Debussy's "Danses Sacreet Profane."

The program also includes Stravinsky's "Eight Instrumental Miniatures" and the Second Orchestral Serenade by Brahms.

Music from the late Middle Ages and the Renaissance will highlight the program on Wednesday. A group of singers and instruemntalists will present works by Palestrina, Lassus, Othmayer, Josquin des Pres, and others in new editions under the direction of Karl Kohn.

The program will also feature the first U.S. performance of Gyorgy Ligeti's "Fragments for Chamber Orchestra", and Beethoven's quintet for piano and winds. Soloists in the latter work will include Nina Lugovoy, piano; Richard Woodhams, oboe; Ben Kamins, bassoon; and Barry Tuckwell, horn.

Hold-up on the Butterfield Stage.

Off the coach and into the train...pulled by a big steam locomotive that crossed the Rockies for the Denver and Rio Grande way back in '81.

Another train trip takes you creaking and clattering deep into the Calico Mine. Over high trestles. Under cascading waterfalls.

Then, you ride the burros or go over to Fiesta Village for a whirl on the "Happy Sombrero" or a thrilling spin on the "Mexican Whip". (Or an old-fashioned spin in an "antique auto".)

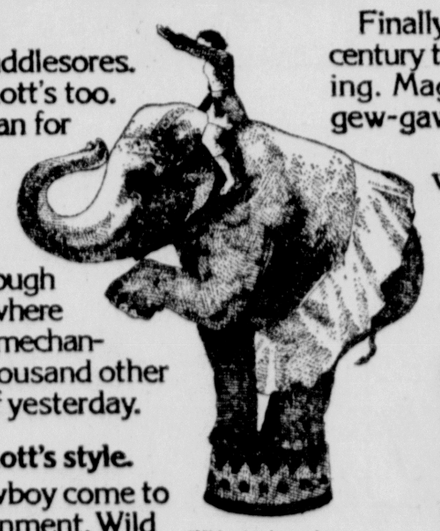
Fun on foot.

Don't worry about saddlesores. There's fun afoot at Knott's too. In Ghost Town...you pan for gold. Climb aboard an old engine. Watch Knott's "Funfighters" shoot it out. Take a topsy-turvy trip through the haunted shack, where water flows uphill. Hear mechanical birds sing. See a thousand other sights...straight out of yesterday.



Wild animals on stage.

Entertainment Knott's style.

Like a miner or a cowboy come to town, you find entertainment. Wild Animal Follies in the Knott's John Wayne Theater...with panthers, lions, elephants and bears live and uncaged on stage.

A barker hustles you into an old time melodrama in the Birdcage Theater. You watch Mariachis and Mexican dancers in Fiesta Village. Country and western entertainment in Wagon Camp. Bluegrass street singers and Knott's Incredible Fireworks Machine blazing into action.

Leather carving ($1,000). Antique toy ($34).

Entertaining yourself.

You try your luck and skill at Gypsy Faire and the Thieves Den, two fabulous arcades in Gypsy Camp. Take eagle-eyed aim in one of two shooting galleries.

Finally, shopping fun. Trains. Turn-of-the-century toys. Baked goods. Gifts. Candy. Clothing. Magic paraphernalia. Everything from gew-gaws to groceries.

Before leaving, you fill your tummies with one of Mrs. Knott's famous chicken dinners. Or a sizzling steak. Or an enchilada dinner. Or hot pretzels and boysenberry juice from a side-street vendor. You learn how the west was fun.

Prop. 9 throws laws into uncertain status

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's only law regulting the small army of lobbyists who court Capitol legislators probably has been obliterated, but nobody is worrying much.

Legislative Counsel George H. Murphy says it is "doubtful" whether the statute is in effect because of the passage last month of Prop. 9, the political reform initiative.

Murphy also said the ballot measure raised leagal questions about the validity of the state's new campaign finance and conflict-of-interest laws.

The agencies charged with enforcing all three laws report they have received inquiries from candidates and lobbyists about the statutes as a result of Prop. 9. But so far nobody has refused to comply with them, the agencies say.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the people are honorable and will honor what was intended to be the law," said Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Nonetheless, Bagley has authored a bill AB4489 to reenact the statutes in question. It will be heard in the Assembly Elections Committee shortly after the lawmakers return from their summer recess in August.

"In case somebody wanted to play games we would have a club," explained Bagley in an interview.

The asemblyman said he will drop another bill AB4490 which would have also solved the problems by putting Prop. 9 into effect immediately. He declared that would be "constitutionally impossible and practically unrelaistic."

The legal questions were raised because Prop. 9 apparently repealed the lobbyist statute and old pre-1974 laws dealing with campaign finance and conflicts of interest.

Another dimension is added to the problem because new campaign finance and conflict-of-interest laws, which went into effect this year, were enacted after Prop. 9 was prepared but before the June 4 election in which it was approved.

Murphy said it could be argued the new laws were "repealed by implication." But he added, "We think the courts would probably assume that the proponents did not intend a gap in the law."

Assemblyman John Quimby, D-San Bernardino, chairman of the lobbyist registration subcommittee, said his group would continue to enforce the old lobbyist law.

The committee's consultant, Margaret Smith, said some of the nearly 700 lobbyists have inquired about the law's status but have not refused to register or file their montly financial statements.

Dave Helms, an attorney for Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., also said he has been asked questions about the other laws.

Churning out pennies

The U.S. Mint churns out 35 million pennies daily; this year 10 billion pennies will be minted, more than three times as many as in 1967.

MAD SCIENTIST? — This scene is nothing as frightening. A volunteer is assisting Caltech biologist Dr. Derk Fender in testing his mind-reading helmet. The electronic cap measures electrical output from 97 brain locations in charting pathways by which messages move from one brain hemisphere to another. Collected in a split second, over a million bits of information are fed through a computer which translates data into a visual contour map of the brain on a screen. Working with IBM in developing the technique, the Pasadena scientist must construct a special helmet with precisely positioned electrodes for each subject.

Ex-con casing banks again, but now he's on their side

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Mike Dockery's varied career as a stickup man started at age 12 with a sporting goods store holdup and went from there to service stations, grocery stores, loan companies and his favorite target—banks.

He robbed more than a dozen in three years before being caught and serving seven years in a federal prison. Now he's out and back to casing banks, but this time his job is to keep the money in the vault.

Dorkery, 28, started a security counseling service for banks this summer under the auspices of the Jackson County sheriff's department.

"What we do is case the place, and then go back in the next day and tell them about security measures, how cameras can be beat, things like that, and what they can do to make their bank less attractive to robbers," Dockery said.

"Then we have a question and answer session with employes, and people ask the questions they wonder about, like, 'if people wouldn't cooperate would I have shot them?''What makes people rob banks?'"

Answering that last question for himself took Dockery several years of self-analysis. His thin, moustached face, normally wearing a relaxed but shrewd smile, turned serious as he recalled the process that turned him from bad guy to good guy.

"I got inside my head and I dug that I was just playing a role," he said. "I think I was always trying to prove myself to people. I couldn't prove it in a positive way so I used a negative way. But now I've made peace with myself and I feel I know who I am and where I'm going."

On March 5 Dockery was released on parole from the federal penitentiary at Terre Haute, Ind. He was married the next month to a woman who majored in criminology at Indiana State University and met Dockery on one of her frequent visits to the prison.

They moved to Kansas City where Dockery has relatives and settled into a middleclass life, she working at an all-night grocery store and he in a die punching factory, then as a telephone solicitor.

Dockery contacted the sheriff's department and started working late in the spring with a deputy who gives talks on drug abuse and crime at schools. They would ask students to guess "which is the cop and which is the con" and Dockery's smooth manner fooled a lot of youngsters.

Korean given life term in gang slaying

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A 21-year-old Korean has been sentenced to life in prison with limited chances for parole in the 1973 execution-style slaying of a purported San Francisco Chinatown gang leader.

Chol Soo Lee was ordered to prison recently for the San Francisco street corner killing of Yip Yee Tak, 32, also known as "Dr. Yang," a reputed leader in the Wah Ching gang.

A probation department report submitted to the court said Lee should be sent to prison for as long as possible.

By RICHARD P. JONES

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — In a reversal of traditional male females roles, Mary Jo O'Donahue has become a capitol policewoman to put her husband through nursing school.

But Mrs. O'Donahue says being fed up with past jobs she has had counted almost as much as the need to help her husband Denis, an ex-marine, go to school.

"I was sick of working at traditional women's jobs, filing for an insurance company, doing secretarial work...just tired of my efforts making money for somebody else," said the attractive cadet.

"When I started I wasn't all that enthusiastic about being a cop but after I went through training school I realized there was potential in it for me, as a woman," said Mrs. O'Donahue, 27, the mother of a boy, Sean, 2.

O'Donahue, 30, was also fed up with his life after leaving the Marines, his wife said. He worked for five years selling heavy equipment.

O'Donahue wouldn't comment on the reverse in roles, but his wife said there was really nothing to explain.

"We're just people," she said, as she rushed to get her son off to nursery school and head for the practice range with her .38 caliber revolver.

"He's doing what he wants to do and I'm doing something that I enjoy and get satisfaction from," she said. "So the problems involved in the reversal are really less than the problems in doing something that you're not really happy with."

Mrs. O'Donahue said they chuckle about the arrangement with friends and admit their son's teacher might think he's a little mixed up if called on to tell what his mommy and daddy do, but that's the way it is.

She said her husband was not a medic in the Marines, but had thought about nursing for some time. He is studying to be a registered nurse at the Madison area technical college.

Mrs. O'Donahue began training last December at the Wauwatosa Police Academy and finished her six-week course early this year. She is one of two women cadets at the capitol.

Las Vegas train service scheduled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., announced Tuesday that Amtrak will operate a special charter train service three days a week between Los Angeles and Las Vegas beginning Sept. 20.

The announcement followed signing of an agreement between Amtrak officials and Las Vegas Charter Service, Inc.

Under the terms of the agreement, the charter company has guaranteed a minimum of 400 passengers each trip. AMTRAK will provide the service on Fridays, Sundays and some Wednesdays.

The train, to be known as the "Las Vegas Celebrity Train," will be made up of equipment from Amtrak's Sunset Limited which operates three times a week between Los Angeles and New Orleans.

Small-town girls out

Texas beauty pageant rigged, claim entries

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Some contestants and their sponsors say the Miss Texas competition is rigged against small-town girls and in favor of repeat entries.

This year's winner, tall, brown-haired Shirley Jean Cothran, 21, of Richland, is the fifth Miss Texas in a row from Dallas, Fort Worth or nearby towns. She will represent the state at the annual Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N.J.

Using the results of recent pageants, United Press International correctly predicted the top three winners this year in a dispatch published two days before the contest.

"I have a feeling that they (winners) were predetermined before we came down here," H. Lynn Mercer, director of the Miss Lubbock Pageant, said after the Saturday night pageant.

Phyllis Lynne Barger, 20, third runner-up as Miss Houston, said, "This area definitely has a thing going as far as the winners." She represented the Dallas suburb of Richardson last year.

"The pageant being in this area and the Miss Texas Board working with Miss Texas, they hand-pick who they want," she said. "They take the girl and work with her all year and try to control it in that sense."

Second runner-up Amy Griggs, reresenting Hurst-Euless-Bedford, another Fort Worth suburb, was first runnerup in 1972 as Miss Fort Worth. Fourth runner-up Candy Crocker, Miss Tyler, represented White Settlement in 1972, according to a pageant official.

"I do not want to go down as saying it was rigged," Miss Barger said. "A lot of people think that, and it certainly seems that way."

A.M. Kirkwood, father of Pamela Gail Kirkwood, Miss Athens, said he and his wife were asked backstage Saturday night along with the parents of the other girls in the top ten.

"Before they had taken the final judges count, a man dressed in white came in and asked for the Bloomers and the Cothrans and I just sat back in my chair, knowing that it was all over," Kirkwood said.

Porno films in Japanese

Some Japanese hostelries operate closed-circuit TV systems to show pornographic movies. But there is that thing known as the transmission leak. Erratically, it permits such pictures to be picked up by neighboring home television sets. In the Kansai region, I'm told, the kiddies who watch the equivalent of Captain Kangaroo just never can tell when they're going to get a 10-minute surprise.

LOT of people don't realize that the horse was among the last, not the first, of the farm animals to be domesticated. In the days of the knights in shinning armor, the trained horse ran to hunt or fight war. But never to plow. The farmer didn't replace his ox with a horse until a couple of hundred of years ago.

A. Depends on what your're buying. Corporation stock, 100 shares. Cotton, 100 bales. Coffee, 150 bags. Pork, 250 barrels. Silver bullion, 1,000 ounces. Grain, 5,000 bushels. Lard, 85,000 pounds. That's rots of rard, what?

KICKS

Client asks just why it is that the orientals who practice karate and kung-fu can kick so much harder than the romping stomping citizens hereabouts. That's a myth. They can't. Not in their bare feet. Nor even in their light sandals. The record shows far more fatalities as the result of kicks by lumberjacks and cowboys. With boots.

College teacher quits to watch birds, deer

CHADRON, Neb. (UPI) — Why would a veteran college biology teacher give up her position to take a job as a rural mailwoman?

Precisely, says Doris Gates. She is fulfilling a lifelong hankering for a mail route of her own to make the most of her lifelong love for the outdoors.

Her action came as a shock to friends and students after 34 years of teaching, the last 19 of it at Chadron State College, but it was something she had in the back of her mind since she was a college student herself.

She sometimes made the rounds with a cousin who was a mail carrier near Stella, Neb., she said, and always carried the notion that she would like to have a route of her own.

This year, she signed a four-year contract with Uncle Sam to take over an 82-mile route that winds south of here through the Pine Ridge country along such colorful trails as Deadhorse Road.

There will be 250 patrons on the route and that amounts to a lot of new names to memorize.

"I'm sure I'll be earning my money," said Miss Gates. "But I wanted to be outdoors more and try something new."

She does not plan to abandon any of her interests in biology.

She said she wants to be consulted by science teachers, and plans to continue writing a nature column for the Chadron Record, a weekly newspaper. She will certainly continue watching birds, flowers and animals.

Scholarship awarded by Pomona AAUW

A Harvey Mudd College student, Mrs. Peggy Anschutz of Azusa, has been awarded a scholarship grant through the Pomona Valley branch of the American Association of University Women.

The Pomona Valley branch also awarded a scholarship during the year to Mrs. Frances Hermann of Los Angeles.

PEGGY ANSCHUTZ

During the evening a surprise presentation honoring Mrs. Sally Orr of Chino was made. A name grant in her honor has been designated to the AAUW educational foundation and fellowships program.

Mrs. Orr was recently elected chairman for the southeast district of the California state division of AAUW. She has served as president of the Pomona Valley branch for three years.

Mrs. John L. Whitman of Claremont has served as chairman of the fellowships committee of the local AAUW branch during the past year. Assisting her were Mrs. Daryll Jones and Mrs. Jack C. Wooton of Pomona.

Sandra Heath wed in Chapel of Bells

The Rev. Byron Mayfield performed the double-ring wedding ceremony for Miss Sandra Ann Heath and Ronald Browne in the Chapel of the Bells in Ontario.

MRS. RONALD BROWNE

James Heath of Pomona gave his daughter in marriage. She wore an organza over taffeta gown fashioned with a high lace-bordered neckline and long sleeves. A lace petal headpiece held the bride's bouffant viel. She carried white daisies, yellow roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Debbie Murphy was matron of honor.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Browne of Pomona, chose Ron Spak as best man.

MRS. DANNY COURTNEY

In an afternoon ceremony at the First Southern Baptist Church of Pomona, Miss Susan Denise Book became the bride of Danny Allen Courtney.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Book of Montclair was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Courtney of Ontario.

A gown of white peau de sole with brocade roses of lace was worn by the bride. The full skirt was accented with lace. A satin and lace headpiece held the bride's bouffant veil.

Denise Chapman handled the guest book at the church reception attended by 125 guests. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Mary Ellen Durr, Mrs. Laurie Chapman, Mrs. Layne Stephens and Miss Susan Chapman.

After a honeymoon at Big Bear, Mr. and Mrs. Courtney will reside in San Diego where the groom is assigned to the U.S. Naval Base.

Mystery scent

HAIR SLAVES, GO FREE!

Rid yourself of the Purgatorial agony of dryers, of the medieval shackles of metallic roller heads and the cotton candy teased tortured look. Let us emancipate you with pure scissor styling, that gives you freedom and freshness. Our lamp cuts, blower cuts, wash and wear, are for this era. Good for any one, any hair.

Also, No-Set Permanent Wave. No rollers and no pins. You may never have to set your hair again. The natural potential that every head of hair has its message to reveal to those who can hear it. We are those stylists. A little bit better than the very best!

Wall Street Chatter

W YORK (UPI) — "One argue basics, perhaps, the current technical of the market leaves o debate—new lows are ible," according to Webber, Jackson & . The firm says "every- he federal government, rations, financial institu- borrowers, lenders—is ed by inflation."

---

ere has been some sel- panic lately and this the market's concern nflation," says Dreyfus Once the Dow Jones in- al average fell below 0 level, a psychological r was broken and the t might move lower e some technical rallies, rms says.

---

y analysts are watching for this week's figures the Federal Reserve on corporate and in- al loan demands, ac- g to Bache & Co. The n demand—it rose by billion last week — has a major depressant on narket, the firm said.

---

ght's Banker Service the principal deterrent major stock market rally dvance at this time "is nprecedentedly high le- of short-term interest " For this reason, the recommends either buy- nto some high quality chips which may be old or taking a holding n.

ght Bankers's Service it believes there is "no r any doubt that invest- s made now in most high y equities have prac- y no signficant further side rush and will prove highly rewarding during next five years." For less willing to wait s out, the firm recom- s investors to keep cash ves until interest rates de and prices begin to rise in substantial volume on the stock market.

If "foreign net purchases of corporate bonds continue to accelerate," says the Financial Digest of Manufacturers Hanover Trust, "they could present a welcome relief to the domestic corporate bond market...." The company noted the market "is already straining under a heavy load of new corporate bond financing."

PUBLIC NOTICE

RESOLUTION NO. 74-44

A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF LA VERNE, COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GIVING NOTICE OF INITIATION OF ANNEXATION PROCEEDINGS UNDER THE ANNEXATION OF UNINHABITED TERRITORY ACT OF 1939, AS AMENDED FOR THE PROPOSED ANNEXATION OF UNINHABITED TERRITORY DESCRIBED HEREIN, AND DESIGNATED ANNEXATION NO. 40.

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of La Verne, County of Los Angeles, State of California, proposes to annex the hereinafter described territory on its own motion, under the provisions of the Annexation of Uninhabited Territory Act of 1939, as amended, and

WHEREAS, the City of La Verne has heretofore filed with the Local Agency Formation Commission a written Notice of Intention to annex that certain territory known and designated as ANNEXATION NO. 40 and the said Local Agency Formation Commission did, under date of May 8, 1974, approve the proposed annexation, and

WHEREAS, no proceedings have been initiated by the City of La Verne on its own motion for the annexation of the hereinafter described territory.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the City Council of the City of La Verne as follows:

Section 1. That pursuant to the provisions of the Annexation of Uninhabited Territory Act of 1939, as amended, Government Code Sections 35300 to 35326, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council of the City of La Verne by these presents, does hereby initiate proceedings to annex the hereinafter described territory, referred to as ANNEXATION NO. 40, located contiguous to the present boundaries of the City of La Verne, without requiring petition to be filed and protested by the property owners of said territory.

Section 2. That the property in said uninhabited territory, to be annexed hereunder, referred to as ANNEXATION NO. 40, shall be taxed to pay an indebtedness or liability of the City contracted prior to or existing at the time of the effective date of such annexation.

Section 3. That the City Council of the City of La Verne intends to annex the hereinafter described territory, which is uninhabited territory contiguous to the City of La Verne, to become a part of the corporate area of the City of La Verne and situate in the County of Los Angeles, State of California the boundaries of which are more particularly described in Exhibit "A" attached hereto and made a part hereof as though the same were set forth in full herein.

Section 4. That the City Council of the City of La Verne desires to annex the territory described in Exhibit "A" attached hereto to the City of La Verne for zoning purposes.

The territory is contiguous to the City of La Verne and the proposed annexation will contribute to and facilitate the orderly growth and development of both the City and the territory proposed to be annexed, that said annexation will facilitate and contribute to the proper and orderly layout, design and construction of streets, gutters, sidewalks, sanitary and storm water sewers and drainage facilities, both within the City and within the territory proposed to be annexed; that said annexation will provide and facilitate proper overall planning and zoning of lands and subdivision of property in the City and said uninhabited territory, in a manner most conducive to the welfare of said City and said uninhabited territory.

Section 5. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the 19th day of August, 1974, at the hour of 8:00 P.M. in the Council Chambers in the City Hall in the City of La Verne, County of Los Angeles, State of California, located at 2061 Third Street, La Verne, California are the hour, date, and place when and where any person owning real property in said territory, the boundaries of which are hereinabove specifically described and having any objections to such proposed annexation, may appear before the City Council of the City of La Verne and show cause, if any they have, why such territory should not be annexed to the City of La Verne and may protest to the annexation thereof.

Section 6. The City Clerk of the City of La Verne is hereby instructed to cause a copy of this Resolution to be published at least twice but not oftener than once a week, in the La Verne Leader, a newspaper of general circulation published in the City of La Verne and also in the Progress Bulletin, a newspaper of general circulation published in the City of Pomona, which said City is outside of the City of La Verne but whose coverage includes County of Los Angeles territory which is the territory proposed to be annexed. All of the aforesaid publications shall be completed at least 20 days prior to said date set for the hearing on said proposed annexation.

Said City Clerk shall also cause written notice of such proposed annexation to be mailed to each person to whom land within the territory proposed to be annexed is assessed in the last equalized assessment roll available on the date these proceedings were initiated, at the address shown on said assessment roll or as known to said Clerk, and to any person who has filed his name and address and the description of the lands in which he has any interest, either legal or equitable, with said Clerk.

Said City Clerk is further instructed to cause written notice of such proposed annexation to be mailed to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles in the event that any of the land proposed to be annexed hereunder is owned by said County of Los Angeles.

In the event there is upon the land proposed to be annexed, a structural improvement owned, being acquired or leased by a County Fire Protection District, the said City Clerk is directed to cause written notice of such proposed annexation to be mailed to the governing body of such district.

All of said written notices shall be mailed at least twenty (20) days before the date of said public hearing.

The City Clerk is directed to cause written notice to be given to such other persons as may be legally entitled thereto, in the manner required by law.

Section 7. That the Mayor shall sign and the City Clerk shall certify to the passage and adoption of this Resolution and thereupon the same shall take effect and be in force.

APPROVED AND ADOPTED this 1st day of July, 1974.
